Play Ball!

The boys and girls of summer

SAN FRANCISCO Giants great Willie "Stretch" McCovey was on hand Saturday to sign autographs and throw out the first pitches for the opening of the 1989 Carmel Youth Baseball league season at Larson Field. Willie (center), tossed one of the pitches to Bronco player Evan Tyler. Waiting for the action to begin (left corner, left to right) were Atticus Rease and Mandy Marcus, while on the other side of the field (above), Gail Bengard pours syrup on a stack of pancakes for Sonja Sparolini during the annual pancake breakfast preceding the opening ceremonies. Willie (below), signed autographs while Assemblyman Sam Farr, who was instrumental in getting the former slugger to attend, looked on. Meanwhile Bill Clark and Bruce Sames (below, left), coaches for the Med Market team, gave last-minute tips to their charges while proud dad Keith Fogg posed for photos with son Trevor before the ceremonies. ## LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Letters to the editor are welcome. Views on all matters are acceptable, following the guidelines of good taste. While there is no limit on length, brevity is encouraged. Letters are subject to editing for style and length. Each letter must contain name, address and signature. A phone number is needed for verification only. Anonymous letters are not accepted.

Definitive writing

Dear Editor:

I wanted to let you know how much I enjoy John Detro's column, "Jazz Tides," in your paper.

He is the most definitive writer on jazz in the entire area. I like his sense of humor, opinionated and entertaining writing style, and most of all, he covers the jazz/blues events (upcoming and historic), completely. If he says it's going to be worthwhile music, I attend without question.

Thanks for keeping us jazz fans so well informed.

Wasting tax dollars

Dear Editor:

Your recent editorial by Tom May was excellent. The Monterey Peninsula Water Management District has wasted millions of our tax dollars and have nothing to show for it. All they have done is to build up a excessively large bureaucracy which has done nothing to relieve our water situation.

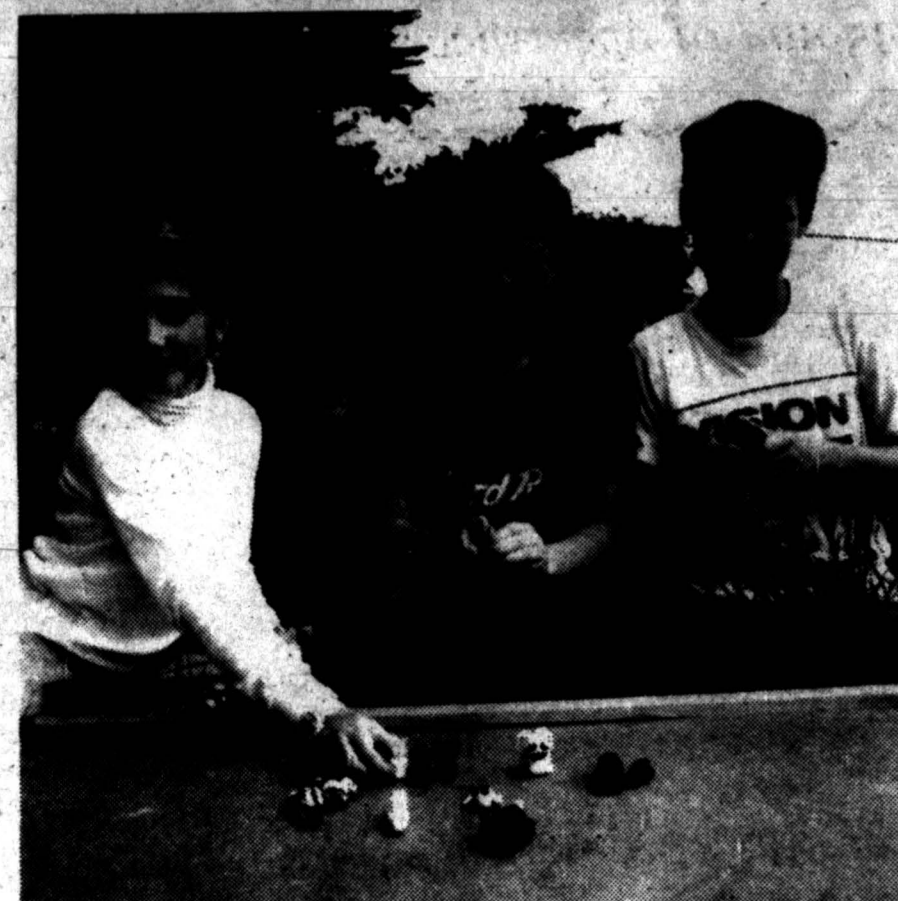

Clint Eastwood's proposal makes a lot of sense. It would give us sufficient water for dry periods and would bypass all of the problems associated with damming the Carmel river. If we do dam that river a large part of the money will go to satisfy the Fish and Game people. Why should we spend millions of dollars to satisfy them when we are already overtaxed.

I suspect that the water district will drag their feet on this proposal and try and kill it. Along with the district will be the pro-growth people who want to build additional hotels on every piece of vacant land. Adopting the Eastwood proposal would slow down the growth in that the water stored in the side canyon would only be used during dry periods and not to promote excessive growth.

Remember all of the promises that the present board made when they were running for a seat on the board. They were going to correct all of the evils and mistakes of past boards. Now the truth comes out. The present board members are no better than past ones and in some ways much worse in that they seem to be more interested in taking care

I can hardly wait for the next election. Maybe we can throw the rascals out and get in a new set of rascals who will be more responsive to the people who live here.

Protestant bashing

Dear Editor:

On Mr. Gallagher's article American's Irish Rich, (Pine Cone, March 16), I wish to suggest that he keep his writing to etymological writings as the article was clearly slanted on the Roman side. In his enthusiasm to bash Protestantism and the English he said, "The hostility to their religion was not new. The English had tried to exterminate Catholicism in Ireland for nearly 700 years." This is a serious error on his part for which he should make a public apology.

If we take the maximum date of the reformation, the day Martin Luther nailed the 95 theses to the Wittenberg church door, Oct. 30, 1517 and add the 700 years he says the English have been trying to exterminate Roman Catholicism, that makes the year 2217. Reverse the example; 1989 minus 700 puts the date at 1289 and that's ridiculous as there was no Protestant church at that time. That is venomous writing, Mr. Gallagher.

He used the term "religious bigotry." This is an old Roman Catholic practice. For a man who deals in words and their origins, this is a disgrace, seeing the one who is the greatest

Correction

A NOTICE published in the March 30 Pine Cone stating that the Kobe Home Stay Program needs host families suggested that the organization is linked with the Carmel Music Society.

These groups are entirely separate. The Pine Cone regrets the error.

bigot of all is always quick to cry bigot when things go against them. When Mary Stuart came to the throne of England together with the support of Philip of Spain, we saw bigotry of the first order at work: Torture and butchery and the burnings for Protestant heresy when the fires were lit on Feb. 4, 1555 at Smithfield.

If Mr. Gallagher would take a look at the real meaning of catholicity he will find that the Protestant church at large has been, and still is, more catholic than Rome has ever been. One example carries the point. The Protestant missionary endeavors of the 18th century.

Many of his observations of Roman Catholic persecutions in Ireland are true, but he needs to be objective as a columnist with no ax to grind. And get his data straight. Seven hundred years of exterminating Roman Catholicism. Really. His bigotry is blinding his arithmetic abilities.

Valley finally gets its senior housing project

By DAVID LELAND

COUNTY SUPERVISORS breathed a collective sigh of relief this week as they unanimously approved a long-awaited senior housing project in Carmel Valley.

Known as The Carmel Valley Overview, the $13 million project consists of 200 rental

"This is what we hoped for. Once you gift the land to the county, it's their ballgame. This can be a very unobtrusive project with the large amount of open space."

— Clint Eastwood

units for low- and moderate-income seniors on 11 acres of a 350-acre parcel.

"I'm very pleased to see a project that meets all of its original goals," said 5th District Supervisor Karin Strasser Kauffman, referring to the project's affordability, seniors-only status, and rental versus owning scheme.

Carmel Overview is located on Carmel Valley Road about 1 1/2 miles east of Highway 1, near Del Mesa Carmel.

The project has been in the making for more than five years, since Clint Eastwood, his former wife Maggie, and James Garner, deeded the land, valued at $2.7 million, to Monterey County specifically for senior housing.

"This is what we hoped for," said Eastwood in a telephone interview from his production studio in Los Angeles. "This is what we talked about."

Eastwood added that he and Garner gave a cash gift to save Jacks Peak Park, which Carmel Overview property abuts, several years ago.

While leaving the majority of the land open space agrees with his views, Eastwood said he is pleasantly surprised at the end result.

"Once you gift the land to the county, it's their ballgame," he said. "This can be a very unobtrusive project with the large amount of open space."

The need for increased senior housing in Monterey County was demonstrated by Ray Parks, Carmel Overview architect, who told the board that the majority of peninsula residents are more than 50 years old.

"I live in a retirement community and don't even know it," he said.

Moreover, the median county income is $34,700 annually, which while comparable to the national average, does not keep up with ever-rising housing costs.

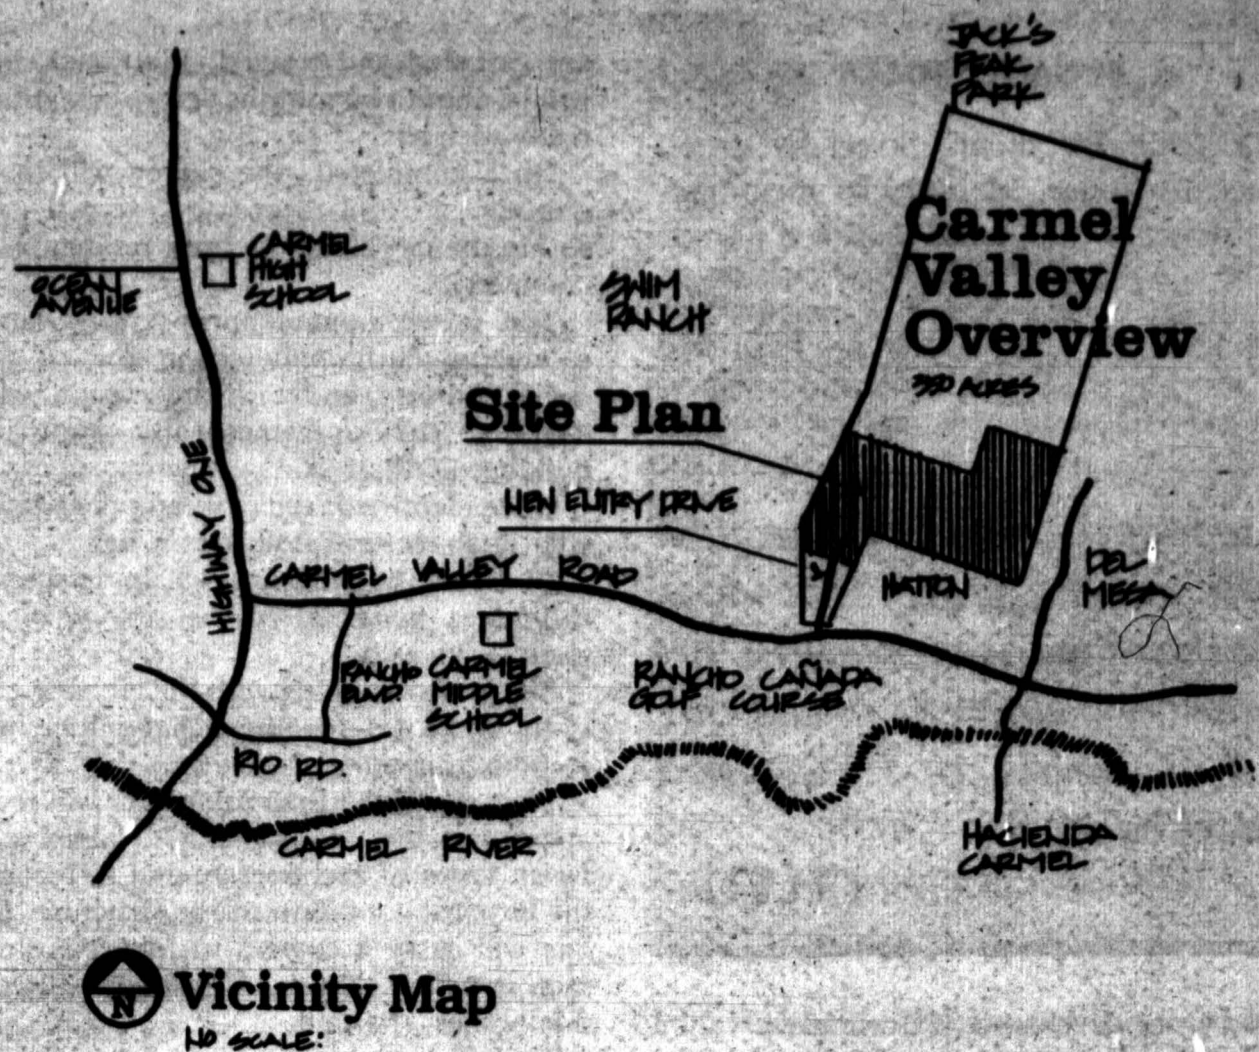

The project will be operated by Oakland-based American Baptist Homes of the West, which manages about a dozen facilities on the West Coast.

The organization is non-sectarian and is no longer church connected.

Parks said the group is currently awaiting word from the state tax board regarding its tax-credit allocation, which could cut funding for the project by $5 million. The state has a finite number of tax credits it gives to non-profit organizations.

Parks said construction will begin this summer and will take a "maximum" of two years to complete.

"We're going to get the ball rolling," he said. "Without 10-percent completion by 1990 we could lose our tax credits, so we have to get going now."

Of the 200 rental units, 30 units will be located in a single building for a higher-level of care; three buildings will house 110 units; and the remaining units will be constructed in seven two-story units.

The project will also support a dining and administration building, maintenance, building and manager's residence.

There will be a total of 339 acres deemed permanent open space on the project, which will likely be administered by the Big Sur Land Trust.

Gary Tate, manager of the county parks and recreation district, told the board that he hoped the land trust would let his agency manage the land.

THE CARMEL Overview project is the largest undertaking to fall under the guidelines of the Carmel Valley Master Plan since it was adopted in 1986.

Both city and county protest water rights agreement

By NANCY HILLS

THE CARMEL City Council and Monterey County Board of Supervisors, in separate actions, agreed to send letters protesting a bitterly disputed proposed water rights agreement that the peninsula water board will consider this Monday.

The agreement gives an official water entitlement to five major private pumpers in Carmel Valley, including the property leased by chairman of the water board, Nick Lombardo.

The agreement was negotiated to settle a water rights protest filed with the state Water Resources Control Board in 1983 that has the potential to slow down the permitting process for any water supply project in the valley, including a Carmel River dam.

The Monterey Peninsula Water Management District board will meet at 7 p.m., Monday, April 10 in Monterey City Council Chambers.

The city council and board of supervisors' letters are just part of a growing number of groups opposed to any approval of the agreement.

The city council requested the staff draft a letter that will request the water board hold a special meeting to discuss the water rights agreement and how it was derived and to continue a decision until the public has been educated about water rights. The council agreed to ask the water board to wait until the environmental impact report on the allocation is certified.

The report will be released to the public April 10 and states that the most environmentally sound pumping level is below current levels. That could force the peninsula into a moratorium on permits.

The council also expressed concern about the speed in which this agreement is being publicly reviewed and about the transfer of water rights allowed by the agreement. The council objected to the rationing agreement.

The council took its action after listening to Ed Lee, Dale Hekhuis and former water boardmember John Williams give differing opinions about the issue.

The Carmel Valley Property Owners Association also voted to send a similar letter of protest last week to the water board.

The state water board has jurisdiction over water rights decisions in the state, subject only to challenge in a court of law.

Walt Pettit, chief of the division of water rights, said that it is normal for local agencies to settle these protests before they come to the state board.

"I would like to encourage them to try to solve any differences they can before it comes to the state board," Pettit said.

THE PRIVATE pumpers currently pump water out of the aquifer without any restrictions, as has every pumper in the valley since it was first settled with farms and ranches.

The agreement sets the amount of water that the pumpers can use each year, but has stirred up major questions about water rights in the valley; the equitability of the amount of water the pumpers are granted; and the fact it allows the pumpers to sell the water or water right to others, even outside the valley. It also limits the amount the pumpers can be rationed.

The issue of selling water outside the valley generated the most controversy until an attorney for the pumpers, Myron Etienne, agreed to drop that provision — with the exception of one property owner. That owner would drop the agreement if the water district waived the right to collect a connection fee.

The opponents of the settlement state that the agreement allows the pumpers to hook up with California-American Water Co. and get potable water for development. Currently, the pumpers use the water taken directly

City reshuffles duties of recreation, cultural depts.

By ANNE PAPINEAU

LACKING A clear definition of the difference between cultural and recreational activities, the Carmel city administrator took steps to consolidate departments that he says have been working at cross purposes.

City Administrator Douglas Schmitz announced last Friday that the Community and Cultural Director and Recreation Director will no longer report directly to him. Instead they will work with the Director of Administrative Services, who will maintain an office at Sunset Center as well as at city hall.

Purpose of this reorganization, Schmitz said, was to eliminate duplication of programs, consolidate administrative and program functions and better manage city resources.

"In essence, (Administrative Services Director) Greg D'Ambrosio will be the business manager for leisure service offerings, which will free (Recreation Director) Beth Kastrup and (Community and Cultural Director) Richard Tyler to focus on program offerings," Schmitz explained this week.

"It's a streamlining of administration," said D'Ambrosio. "The policies and programs developed by Beth and Richard will be overseen by me. My task is to take the day-to-day things that take up their time off their hands so that they can develop new programs."

This reorganization will be the subject of a report prepared 90 days after its March 31 implementation date.

Interviewed this week, neither Kastrup nor Tyler could gauge the impact of this change on their responsibilities or on cultural and recreational offerings in Carmel-by-the-Sea.

"As we speak, my specific tasks have not been identified," Kastrup said Tuesday. "This will provide additional time to offer direct service to the community. I'm continuing to plan the series and programs I've offered in the past."

"We're talking about office space (for D'Ambrosio) right now," said Richard Tyler from his Sunset Center office. "I really don't know how my role will change. They haven't said."

According to the city administrator, the reorganization grew out of a September meeting of the Carmel Cultural Commission.

"There were concerns and comments expressed last autumn that the city was duplicating its services. The Cultural Commission provided space at Sunset Center for ballet classes, and the recreation department also offered ballet. There was concern on the part of some that the Recreation Department's offering of a ballet class was an unfair advantage," he stated.

Schmitz said that the Cultural Commission raised the issue and appointed a committee which then met with the Recreation Commission.

"It remained unresolved," he added. "One" of the results of the issue being unresolved was my analysis of it so we would not have this problem again. The alternative that was most favorably received was to consolidate our leisure services."

"It's an extremely good idea," Mayor

Jean Grace told The Carmel Pine Cone. "It gives Richard Tyler a chance to concentrate on the arts, which he is so good at. Sunset Center is a community center, not just a cultural center. It's tended to be looked at that way but the city bought it for many community needs. The departments need a coor-

"One of the problems we're having here is where we are as a cultural center," observed Roger Fremier, chairman of the Cultural Commission. "It's wrapped up in mystery. A major fear the Cultural Commission has is of amalgamating two mutually exclusive schools of thought."

Carmel takes its first steps to preserve its history

By NANCY HILLS

BLOCK BY block. Street by street. House by house. Memory by memory.

That is how it's done, explained historic preservation specialist Gee Gee Platt.

Platt, of G. Bland Platt Associates, was recently hired by Carmel Heritage to oversee a Carmel-by-the-Sea historic and architectural survey, the first step any city needs to take before developing historic preservation laws and policies.

'Carmel is one of the few cities in the state that does not have a preservation ordinance. I think it needs one and it needs one designed specifically for Carmel.'

— Gee Gee Platt

"Carmel is one of the few cities in the state that does not have a preservation ordinance. I think it needs one and it needs one designed specifically for Carmel," Platt said.

Platt, a San Francisco resident and an professional historic preservation consultant, was in Carmel from April 23 through 26 for a fast three days of meetings and introductions.

The survey will begin as soon as volunteers are gathered and trained, Platt said, but it will be about two months before everything is ready to start.

Once completed, the survey will include photographs and records of every structure within the city limits — both residential and commercial.

The survey's main purpose goes beyond cataloging all the buildings in town.

"Volunteers, under my supervision, will be looking for architecturally significant buildings," Platt said.

Once identified, the city can take a look at what architectural resources it has.

"I think the citizenry will understand an ordinance better after the survey is complete," she said.

She is also working with the city and county to make it a document that will be useful to both government agencies.

Platt explained that volunteers will receive about two days of training to identify different types of architecture and to recognize the physical condition of the structure. Each one will carry a camera to take pictures of each structure. No one, however, will go inside homes, she said.

The block-by-block walk is only one aspect of the inventory.

While others walk the blocks, research volunteers will be consulting a myriad of government and private documents that record the city from its beginnings to now, including city planning and library files.

"The planning department has wonderful resources. Every building has its envelope with information about the structure," she said.

All the history that can be found about a building will be recorded and attached to the survey sheet.

Research volunteers will also look for historic sites to record, adding those to the survey to compile a comprehensive document that matches past events and lives with buildings and places.

Platt added that local residents should begin doing a little rummaging of their own, looking in attics and papers for memories and mementoes of Carmel.

Everyone can join in the search, she said, and the more people gathering information the better.

Once the information gleaned from walking around town and going through records is complete, long-time residents will be given the files to make comments.

"It is all right if someone disagrees with a book, it is all right if one person disagrees with another. It is just that those disagreements will be centralized," she said.

The starting and completion date depends upon how quickly she gets enough volunteers and how many are working on the survey.

Since Carmel has about more than 3,000 parcels, that will take a lot of volunteers. About 100 walkers would be needed, she said.

"Carmel Heritage has a number of dedicated volunteers," Platt said, but many more are needed.

PLATT WAS hired with the help of a grant from National Trust for Historic Preservation grant that Carmel Heritage received to conduct the survey. She brings to the process years of experience in the field.

Her qualifications for undertaking this complicated task include chairperson for the 1963-8 San Francisco architectural survey done from 1963 to 1968, published as Here Today: San Francisco's Architectural Heritage. Since then, she has worked on and conducted numerous other surveys.

She has served on the Landmarks Preservation Advisory board for city and county of San Francisco; served as president of the California Preservation Foundation; is a former trustee of the California Historical

City council makes a bid to save city's trees

By NANCY HILLS

THE CARMEL City Council brought a smile to the city forester's face Tuesday night.

The council approved an ordinance (on a 4-1 vote), that requires a city permit to cut down any Monterey Pine, California oak, cypress or redwood tree that is 6 inches in diameter or larger.

That corresponds to a tree of about 18 inches around and 4½-feet up from the base of the trunk. A tree that size, explained city

'We give up some of our private property rights when we live in densely populated areas. We cannot play loud music, have open fires. The value of the upper canopy trees outweighs the little trouble you have to go to get a permit.'

— Jean Grace

forester Gary Kelly, would be about 20 years old and a height of approximately 30 to 35 feet.

The council also upheld an appeal of a forestry commission decision to allow the cutting of a approximately 60-year-old pine tree on Fourth Street between Torres and Santa Fe avenues. The tree was to be removed for construction of a new home.

The debate over the ordinance inspired old-style eloquence from proponents and opponents, the former in defense and praise of the city forest and the latter in defense and praise of private property rights.

"I remember on a (sunny) day like today, you would walk down the street in Carmel and there was the wonderful aroma of the pines," Marjorie Lloyd said. "Now with every lot built on, you only have to look at the forest to see how much is gone. If people value living in Carmel and come to live here because it is a city in the trees, they should have trees on their property."

"I would like you to take the very first step, like our forerunners, to protect the trees and maybe one day, on a day like today, we will still smell the pines."

As she headed for her seat the audience gave her a vigorous round of applause.

Councilwoman Elinor Laiolo cast the lone vote against the new law after she quizzed Kelly about his statistics on the number of trees lost to the city over the years.

Though she expressed the belief that the upper canopy was not in danger and that fewer trees have been lost than people believe, it was the restrictions on property owners that was the basis for her "no" vote.

"I think I shall never see a poem as wonderful as a tree. I also think I will never see a government so wonderful as one that makes living easy for its residents," Laiolo said, protesting requiring citizens to get city permits before cutting down a tree on their property.

"I cannot support an ordinance that is premised on usurping private property rights," she said before the vote.

THE NEW law will get another legal reading next month followed by a 30-day waiting period before it becomes law.

In the past a property owner only needed a permit to cut down trees on private property if there was construction involved.

Those applications are reviewed by the Carmel Forestry Commission, which on average grants 75 percent of all tree removal requests. The commission will review permit requests generated by the new ordinance.

Kelly conducted a workshop with the council in January and explained that the number of upper canopy trees is diminishing on private property, while the shorter, non-indigenous "exotics" like fruit trees are increasing. The council instructed the forestry commission to develop an ordinance to help protect the trees.

A tree survey indicates that over 17 years the number of Monterey pines has decreased by 298 trees.

Kelly told the council that three peninsula cities — Pacific Grove, Del Rey Oaks, Seaside — have ordinance similar to the one they were considering that night.

"I think it is an infringement on privacy. When I first came to Carmel, I had 12 trees on my property — talk about a mole hole," Marion Tavernetti said. "If I could not sell (my house) because a prospective buyer could not cut down a tree, I would be mad. I refuse to be a part of anything that will tell me what I can do on my own property."

Clayton Anderson told the council that "Carmel with its small lots and houses so close together, without its trees would be a slum. How many times do we hear that chain saw going?"

"My wife and I were walking down Lincoln Street and heard someone cutting down a tree," he recounted "We went to see and asked that man doing the work why the owner was removing the tree. 'They don't want it no more' was the reason. This ordinance doesn't prohibit people from cutting down a tree, it's just that they have to get a permit. That is a lot more modest than the other cities."

"I've been accused by some of my oldest and dearest friends of being a socialist or worse," said Lindsay Hanna, one of the forestry commissioners that helped develop the ordinance. "But our concern has been to protect the trees."

"Now Carmelites enjoy their 'village in the forest.' Envision in another generation — no big trees and rows of $1 million houses 6 feet apart. Let's protect our forest heritage and approve this ordinance," Hanna concluded.

Mary Louise Schneeberger also drew a round of applause when she suggested that "at every entrance to Carmel there should be sign that states 'If you can't stand the trees, stay out of the forest.'"

The councilmembers were steadfast in their support of the ordinance.

Fischer said he had problems with the ordinance because of the private property rights issue, but people can always appeal any forestry commission decision rejecting a permit.

Councilman Ken White spoke about Santa Clara Valley and San Jose, where they have been cutting down trees for years and now are having to replant them.

"They recognized the value of trees," he said, adding that he had so enjoyed the discussion on both sides.

Mayor Jean Grace said that "We give up some of our private property rights when we live in densely populated areas. We cannot play loud music, have open fires. The value of the upper canopy trees outweighs the little trouble you have to go to get a permit."

Grace praised Bob Evans, who had written letters against the ordinance as a "great personal friend," but still voted for the ordinance. Evans was not present at the meeting.

In other business, the council:

THE CARMEL City Council Tuesday night approved an ordinance that requires property owners to get a permit before cutting down upper canopy trees with an 18-inch or larger trunk. Del Rey Oaks, Seaside and Pacific Grove all have similar ordinances. (Mac McDonald photo.)

• Approved an ordinance the bans the use of styrofoam and products containing chlorofluorocarbons by food vendors in the city.

The council listened to testimony from industry representatives and restaurant owners against approving the ordinance and Laiolo, who voted against it, read each section aloud, stating where she disagreed with its provisions. The council still approved the measure by a 4-1 vote. It becomes effective in 30 days.

• Denied an appeal by Daniels & House Construction Co. for an extension on city permits for the former McElDowney condominium project on Junipero Avenue.

— Lynne Mounday
— County planner

chairwoman 2nd District Supervisor Barbara Shipnuck, referring to the remaining 421 acre feet the board still has in its allocation.

The only opposition to the housing project came in the form of a letter from Carmel Valley attorney Richard Rosenthal, who has unsuccessfully, thus far, waged several battles in court against development in the valley.

While Rosenthal did not attend Tuesday's hearing, he sent a letter to board members that morning.

In it he suggested that the county was not addressing the problems of water, traffic and overall alternatives to the proposed project in the fashion dictated in the master plan.

Board members found his letter riddled with errors, such as Rosenthal not knowing that supervisors had already allotted water to the project.

"What we see here is an abuse of the process," said an angry Shipnuck. "We have a project that the board helped nurture."

Indeed, while the project may be housed in Carmel Valley, numerous county agencies, such as the Housing Authority and Department of Social Services, have been instrumental in realizing the dream.

Shipnuck told the audience that the public should be outraged by the letter, which she feels represents a potential lawsuit.

"I think occasionally the taxpayers need to be concerned, this will be fought with your tax dollar," she said. "I think you need to raise your consciousness about the process."

Rec, cultural department heads' duties reshuffled

SCHMITZ SAID that the reorganization means D'Ambrosio will assume responsibility for "personnel, budgeting, facilities and capital improvements."

"Greg has been responsible for most of the capital improvements already. His finger has already been in the capital improvements pie, with the renovations in effect at Sunset Center," Schmitz said.

This early in the reorganization, D'Ambrosio said he could not guess the impact of his new responsibilities.

"I'll have a lot of help from the existing staff. We've had some preliminary meetings. I'm just in the process of getting up and running," he noted.

D'Ambrosio said he will work directly with the Cultural and Recreation commissions.

directs the operation and activities of the Sunset Community and Cultural Center, the Forest Theatre, the Scout House and the Cottages," the city budget outlines. "The Sunset Center creates an environment for the cultural needs of the residents of our community."

It also states, "The Recreation Department is housed at the Carmel Youth Center ... The program provides a variety of recreational and creative opportunities for Carmel area residents of all ages."

"Is Gymboree a cultural event or is it a recreational event?" Schmitz asked, referring to a preschool program housed at Sunset Center. "That's part of the grain of the lines here."

'It's an extremely good idea. Sunset Center is a community center, not just a cultural center. It's tended to be looked at that way but the city bought it for many community needs. The departments need a coordinator.'

"The policies and programs developed by them will be overseen by me," he said. "We want to not only avoid duplication of programs but also develop new programs. I'll be responsible for developing Cultural and Recreation Commission agendas, developing short- and long-range policies for the operation of those departments."

One hurdle that may have to be cleared by all before cultural and recreational offerings can be bettered is to define which activities are cultural and which are recreational.

At present, city guidelines define the respective categories in chiefly geographic terms.

Queen hopefuls being sought

YOU COULD be Queen of the Carmel Valley Centennial Ball.

If you are single, of an age ranging from a high school freshman to 20 years old and live in Carmel Valley, you can become a candidate for the Queen of the Carmel Valley Centennial Ball, win $500 and participate in centennial weekend activities planned for Aug. 4-6.

Candidates will be judged on appearance, poise, personality and speaking ability and be coronated at a gala Queen's Ball on the night of Aug. 4 at Hidden Valley Music Seminars.

Candidates must submit an application and a 500-word essay about themselves, their family and why they like living in Carmel Valley. Candidates will also need a sponsor — a friend, business or organization — to provide the $200 sponsoring fee to go toward centennial program expenses. Bonus points accumulated by selling tickets will also be considered in the final tally for queen.

For more information call Sandra Clough at Stew's Plumbing, 659-2411 or 659-5232. Deadline for applications is May 31.

New AMBAG chairwoman predicts a 'banner' year

By DAVID LELAND

FIFTH DISTRICT Supervisor Karin Strasser Kauffman has forecast 1989 as a "banner" year for the Association of Monterey Bay Area Governments.

Strasser Kauffman, who was elected president of AMBAG in January, told The Pine

'It's (clean-up) a difficult undertaking. The oil companies have been over-optimistic in giving us their assurances. When it comes to the Central Coast, we're not willing to take those chances.'

Cone that numerous public hearings on proposed offshore oil drilling and the creation of the ocean sanctuary for the Monterey Bay Management Plan should top the bill for the coming year.

AMBAG, founded in 1968, is a voluntary group of cities and counties in and around the Monterey Bay, encompassing 3,784 square miles and about 500,000 people.

"I'm really very eager to act in this capacity this year," said Strasser Kauffman. "I'm delighted to help lead the charge."

AMBAG is primarily concerned with the preservation of the area's natural assets, along with a concern for the area's economy and growth.

Citing the crucial issues facing AMBAG, Strasser Kauffman, who has represented county supervisors on AMBAG for the past three years, said she is pleased to become more involved.

"It's a good time to be more active than usual in the organization," she said.

Strasser Kauffman said she is concerned that President Bush has not removed offshore oil leasing off the Central Coast from his agenda.

The supervisor pointed to the recent oil spill in Alaska, where an Exxon tanker ran aground, as an example of what can happen to the environment and economy as the result of an accident.

"I think the Exxon experience will give us the final round of ammunition to make a case," she said. "Now we have proof — it can happen."

Again alluding to the Alaskan tragedy, Strasser Kauffman scoffed at guarantees made locally by oil companies that oil spills can be cleaned up quickly and easily, thus sparing the environment.

"It's (clean-up) a difficult undertaking," she said. "The oil companies have been over-optimistic in giving us their assurances. When it comes to the Central Coast, we're not willing to take those chances."

CREATING AN ocean sanctuary for the Monterey Bay Management Plan will set the tone of the region for years to come.

AMBAG sits on Rep. Leon Panetta's steering committee for the federal project, which will be compiled by the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration, a part of the Department of Commerce.

AMBAG has taken on the task of educating the public on the necessity of participating in the public hearings set for this June. Hearings are planned for both Monterey and Santa Cruz.

In addition to preparing for several important public hearings, AMBAG will continue this year acting as a coordinating unit for various jurisdictions.

AMBAG, which has a full-time staff of 10, reviews all environmental impact reports prepared for the county, making sure that all data is correctly reported.

In many respects, AMBAG attempts to make sure there is a cohesive planning picture taking place in the county.

"It makes sense to coordinate planning — to make sure someone looks at the larger picture," Strasser Kauffman said. "AMBAG is a crucial agency in analyzing effects of land-use planning on the area."

For smaller members of AMBAG, such as the city of Gonzales, AMBAG acts as additional staff in preparing housing elements and various plans.

The AMBAG board of directors meets once a month to set policy and oversee staff. Input to AMBAG comes from city and county members, as well as other agencies and the public, who are invited to attend all meetings.

City, county protests water deal

from the aquifer for irrigation. It is not treated for human consumption.

The five properties involved in the agreement include Rancho Canada Golf Club, Quail Meadows, Carmel Valley Ranch, Leonard William's farmland and Hacienda Carmel Community Association.

Quail Meadows owner Ed Haber has stated that he plans to use the water for the development of 56 new homes on his property and will use no more water than he is currently using on his golf course at Quail Meadows Lodge.

Haber plans to install a $550,000 irrigation system that will reduce the amount of water he needs to water his golf course but he needs a project to charge those expenses against.

The Quail Meadows project was recently reviewed by board of supervisors on the Carmel Valley Master Plan point system.

The Williams have a construction service center planned for their farm property on which they would like to use the water and are the ones that would like the district to waive its $12,000 acre foot connection fee in exchange for dropping the the power to sell the water.

Lombardo has a 175-room hotel, in the Carmel Valley Master Plan, planned for Rancho Canada. However, his attorney and son Anthony Lombardo said that his father has no plans to proceed with the project at this time due to the oversupply of hotel rooms on the peninsula now.

Water rights issues are very complex and subject to many different interpretations and conditions. With that in mind, what follows is a basic overview of some of the objections to the agreement:

- The right to transfer water to a non-riparian property. The water right the pumpers claim is based on riparian water rights — rights owned unless surrendered by owners of properties along a river, stream or underground river.

Riparian water rights can only be used on riparian parcels. Parcels without riparian rights do not qualify for riparian water.

This agreement allows the owner of the water to use the property on non-riparian parcels.

The pumpers state that they have the right to use the water on their land, especially if they do not use more water than they do now.

- The pumpers can only be rationed up to 40 percent no matter how severe the cut is for the rest of the peninsula.

All Carmel Valley private pumpers claim that the district has no right to ration them at all and only voluntarily cut down on their usage.

- Whether or not the numbers used to determine how much water a water entitlement pumpers get is under dispute. Opponents disagree with the numbers used by the district in determining the 3.8 acre feet per acre figure, based on turf irrigation, the golf course owners.

The county strongly disagrees with the amount of water the Williams will based on their use for farming.

The pumpers state that the amounts are based on historical use and standard usage figures from UC Davis.

- The question of underflow versus groundwater in the valley. The state water board must still rule on that complex issue, which will determine the direction the water rights in the valley will take. The state board plans to review that when it reviews the district's water supply project application.

- This is the prototype for other water rights agreements in the valley.

CARMEL YOUTH BASEBALL

By Mary Parsons

Play ball!

BEAUTIFUL WEATHER, good food, an extra-special celebrity guest, and the hard work of many people combined to make Opening Day 1989 a great success!

The enthusiasm of the capacity crowd for Willie "Stretch" McCovey, who arrived in a stretch limo and patiently signed autographs for almost an hour before the morning ceremonies, was matched by the enthusiasm of the players in late morning and afternoon jamborees and games.

In the first Bronco game of the year, Carmel Valley Disposal defeated last year's first-place La Playa by a score of 16-2. La Playa's Todd MacMillan put his team on the board with his first Bronco hit, scoring two runs, but CVD was the dominating force from then on. Pitcher/shortstop Paul Huntington (2-for-3, 5 RBI), ensured his team's victory by smashing a three-run homer over the left field fence late in the game. Also hot for the winners were Chip Dorey (3-for-3 with a double and 3 RBI), and Kyle Wirtz (2-for-3). Pitcher Brent Sullivan, in his Bronco debut, was outstanding.

The Express, a new team in the Bronco division, cruised to a 14-4 win over Derek Rayne in Saturday's second game. Tahl Raz gave an outstanding performance for the expansion team, batting 2-for-3 with a double and playing both catcher and pitcher. Teammate Matthew Allen was 2-for-4, and shut out the opposition in the two innings he pitched. Amir Masliyah (1-for-2), and Michael Gulla each scored three runs. Derek Rayne's Marlin Watson hit 2-for-3 with 2 RBI, and teammate Ryan McCauley nailed a double.

Another newcomer to Carmel Youth Baseball and the Peninsula Cities League is the Rookie Softball Division, made up of 9- and 10-year-old girls. In their opening game in Toro Park on Saturday, our Rookie team (sponsored by Carmel Stamp and Coin), handily defeated the Toro Park Rainbows by a score of 18-15. Among the game highlights were an outstanding pitching performance in the final innings by Laura McGowan, and good hitting by Page Petersen (3-for-3).

In Major Softball, New Masters Gallery narrowly lost to the Marina Condors, 14-12, after leading the game until the final inning. Gillian Brown pitched well in her first Majors start. Megan Martine (whose only prior catching experience was in practice last Thursday), did a great job behind the plate with several different pitchers. Also contributing to the NMG defense was Melissa Hill at second base. Samantha Hisey drove in three runs, including a two-RBI double to right field.

OUR THANKS to all who attended the pancake breakfast and Opening Day, with special thanks to those who put so much time and effort into making the event a success. Each team sponsor was honored during the ceremonies and deserves credit for their invaluable support.

Before throwing out the first pitches, one to each division, Willie spoke inspirationally of the opportunities which are available in youth sports today — opportunities which he did not have as a youngster. He referred to baseball as "the greatest game of all" and advised the players to go out and have a good time. What better way to start a new season! See you at the games!

ATTENTION ALL PONY DIVISION PLAYERS! Tryouts and sign-ups will be held this Sunday, April 9 from 1 to 3 p.m., at the Pony baseball field at Carmel Middle School. ALL PLAYERS — NEW AND RETURNING — MUST TRY OUT.

The league also needs to have in its files a copy of each player's birth certificate, so bring a copy to the sign-ups. To be eligible for Pony Division, you must be 13 on or before July 31, 1989 and/or turn 15 on or after Aug. 1, 1989.

Supes confirm point system for subdivisions

By DAVID LELAND

MONTEREY COUNTY Supervisors on Tuesday unanimously confirmed the point-scoring system for subdivisions contained in the Carmel Valley Master Plan.

In doing so, the Quail Meadows Subdivision and Taylor Minor Subdivision were given the go-ahead to continue in the planning process.

'One reason for the change of location is the director felt that Carmel was a little too much upscale. Pacific Grove is a little older community.'

— Susan Trembley

Under the master plan, adopted in 1986, a citizens committee, composed of five residents and two alternates, rates a subdivision on policies that apply to it. Examples of these policies include land use, water, noise and traffic.

In doing this, it is possible for competing projects to be given environmental priorities so one can be selected, according to Lynne Munday, senior planner.

To date, 37 lots per year for the past three years have accumulated, which leaves 111 lots available for allocation at this time, Munday said. There have been no new residential lots created in the Carmel Valley Master Plan since it was adopted.

The total lots requested by Quail Meadows and the Taylor Minor subdivisions is 58, which would leave a balance of 53 lots for allocation in 1989.

While the master plan, which serves as a guideline for the valley for the next 17 years, dictates that no more than 25 units in a subdivision may be granted at one time, the absence of any building for the past three years would enable Ed Haber's Quail Meadows to proceed.

Haber must now bring a tentative map and environmental impact report before the board of supervisors for approval.

Fifth District Supervisor Karin Strasser Kauffman lauded both the master plan and the citizens involved in the process.

"It's (the plan) not only looking good on paper, but it's working when we put it to the test," she said.

She added that the committee has put in countless hours of volunteer work.

"Those people really deserve praise from the public," she said. "They're doing the public's work. For them to put in the time is really heroic."

CARMEL RIVER WATER NEWS

By Henrietta Stern

Our hidden water reservoir

MUCH ATTENTION has been focused on our water supply lately, due to water rationing in this drought year. When people think of water supply, they usually think of surface water being stored by dams and reservoirs. Things are a little different in our area, because most of our water comes from a "hidden source"—ground water.

Today's column provides a mini-lesson in ground-water hydrology and describes the important role ground water from Carmel Valley and the Seaside Coastal Subbasin play in our community's water supply.

The importance of ground water is shown by the following facts: (1) If Los Padres and San Clemente Reservoirs are full, they contribute only 8 percent to our total water storage. (2) Total surface reservoir storage is only about one-seventh of annual demand. Thus, most of our municipal supply comes from ground-water pumping.

CARMEL VALLEY AQUIFER

Let's begin our hydrology lesson. Most ground water pumping in Carmel Valley comes from the Carmel Valley Alluvial Aquifer. An alluvial aquifer is an underground water basin composed of gravel, sand, silt and clay that has been deposited over time by a river. An aquifer is like a sponge that holds water, then releases it when "squeezed" (pumped). It is not an underground lake. An aquifer is "recharged" by flowing river water that seeps into the ground, like holding a moist sponge under a tap to saturate it with water.

The Carmel Valley aquifer extends 16 miles upriver from the ocean, and has a surface area of about six square miles. These dimensions tell us it is long and narrow, and basically follows the path of the Carmel River. Its maximum thickness is about 190 feet near the Highway 1 bridge. Cal-Am has 18 wells that pump ground water from the aquifer; many other private entities (golf courses, farms, private homes) have wells of varying sizes as well.

For planning purposes, the water district divides the Carmel Valley Aquifer into four subunits. Two lie in the "upper valley," which runs from San Clemente Dam to the Scarlett Narrows. Two lie in the "lower valley," which runs from the Narrows to the ocean. Most of the ground water pumped for municipal use comes from the lower aquifer. This is because it has the greatest storage capacity and, not surprisingly, the most wells.

SEASIDE AQUIFER

Another ground water basin used for our water supply is the Seaside Coastal Subbasin. The Seaside Basin as a whole is much more complex than that in Carmel Valley. There are four separate layers of water-bearing units, with horizontal subdivisions as well. Cal-Am has 11 wells in the Seaside Coastal area, which has a usable storage capacity of 4,700 acre feet. Much of the Seaside Basin total storage is unusable, because of concerns about seawater intrusion if ground water levels drop below sea level. This ground water source is moderately pumped in normal years, and pumped hard only in droughts.

AQUIFER WATER STORAGE

Many of you have noticed the weekly "water bottle" published by the water district in this paper. It shows total capacity of all water sources compared to current water in storage (23,468 acre feet as of March 29, 1989). Given that our average normal year water use is about 18,000 acre feet, some have called to ask why we are rationing! This is a case where numbers can be misinterpreted unless all the facts are known. Read on for an explanation.

WHAT YOU SEE IS NOT WHAT YOU GET

"What you see is not what you get" is an apt description of the ground water situation. A more scientific way of saying it is, "Extractable storage (the amount one can actually pump out of the ground), is usually less than usable storage (the amount of water that is available for pumping)." Reasons for this include: (1) limited number of pumps, (2) limited pumping capacity and (3) the influence of declining water tables levels on the ability to pump water.

A good example of the influence of limited pumping capacity is the situation in the upper Carmel Valley. It is presently full with a storage capacity of about 6,500 acre feet. However, the maximum pumping capacity of Cal-Am wells there is about 150 acre feet per month, or 1,800 acre feet per year. Cal-Am is further constrained by State Department Fish and Game and the district from pumping in that area in normal years due to the environmental damage that would occur if water levels were drawn down.

The situation in the lower Carmel Valley demonstrates the impact of declining water table levels on water production. As water is pumped from wells, the ground water levels drop. When water levels drop, the ability of the well to extract water declines rapidly. The well pump produces less and less water, and it eventually reaches a point where it must be shut down. Think of a sponge that is easy to wring out the first squeeze, much harder to wring out the third squeeze, and nearly impossible to wring out the fifth squeeze.

PEAK DEMAND IS THE KEY

A very important factor that is often overlooked is peak demand. The total amount of water that is available is not nearly as important as the ability to meet peak demand—the number of gallons that people use on a hot summer day. The district uses the ability of Cal-Am to meet peak demand as the key to determine whether rationing is necessary, not simply the current storage shown in the water bottle graphic.

For example, we calculate how much storage must be in the lower Carmel Valley Aquifer in August to meet peak demand. Primary factors are Cal-Am's pumping capacity, other well owners' capacity, the influence of declining water levels on pumping capacity, and expected river inflow that seeps into and "recharges" the ground water basin. Thus, to meet the expected peak demand of about 1,100 acre feet in the month of August, there needs to be about 10,000 acre feet in storage in the lower Carmel Valley Aquifer that month.

That's enough hydrology for one reading. Hopefully, you have gained a better appreciation of where our water comes from, the factors we must consider in water supply planning and the interplay of the physical factors involved. Until next month, keep up your excellent conservation efforts! The less water we use now, the more ground water will be available to meet peak demand this summer!

DR. UNCLE SAM WILL CURE YOUR COLD

Congressman Arthur M. Free of this district informs the Pine Cone of the new treatment for colds, whooping-cough, and bronchitis discovered by the chemical warfare division of the U.S. Army. The treatment simply consists of liberating a certain amount of chlorine gas in a closed room properly mixed with air. The process destroys the germs, but does not irritate the mucous membranes.

Thousands of people about Washington have been cured. It usually takes a treatment of about one hour to cure a cold, while whooping-cough is absolutely cured in one treatment. The chemical warfare division is asking for a patent on the apparatus used, and then expects to liberate it generally, without charge, for the relief of people who might need the treatments.

FOREST THEATER ACTION URGED

Members of the city council made it clear Wednesday night that they would brook no further delay in plans to restore the Forest Theater.

This position was taken when it appeared that chances of WPA assistance in the work were going glimmering—and going fast.

Only a few days remained apparently in order to get plans in early enough to have the Forest Theater put into shape for a production this summer.

Curtailment of WPA and the possibility of its abolition in case of war were goals in the council's haste.

PLANS FOR NEW WING AT COMMUNITY HOSPITAL

Plans to construct a new 32-bed patient wing to accommodate an additional 1,600 patients per year at Community Hospital were announced yesterday at the annual membership meeting by Vernon F. Hurd, who also was re-elected president of the Board of Trustees.

He said the new two-story wing will be built at the northeastern corner of the hospital. It will connect north and south nursing floors.

Also announced was the starting in the next 90 days of a new 53-car parking lot on the north side of the hospital, increasing the area to 200 cars.

PANEL TO CONSIDER CLOSING ONE SCHOOL

An 11-member citizens' committee has been appointed to study the need to close one or more Carmel Unified School District campuses as a cost-saving measure.

The district is considering closure of Carmel Woods and Carmelo schools. Except for Captain Cooper School, which serves the isolated Big Sur community, they have the smallest enrollments among district elementary schools.

The committee, in its report, will study whether closing the campuses would, indeed, save any money.

CARMEL RIVER MANAGEMENT PLAN READY

A management plan that could save the Carmel River from civilization-induced destruction will be presented to the Monterey Peninsula Water Management District Board of Directors Monday, April 9 in Monterey City Hall.

The plan is designed to overhaul the lower 15-mile stretch of the river along which hundreds of homes have been built in the past two decades.

In the past, riverbank repair has been a haphazard endeavor, and projects that protect one person's property sometimes adversely affect his neighbor's.

But, if successful, the Carmel River Management Program would coordinate efforts to repair the river for the overall good of the river and all who live near it.

Hearing on reclamation plant set for April 13

THE CARMEL Sanitary District and Pebble Beach Community Services District have announced a public hearing April 13 on the proposed water reclamation project's environmental impact report.

The Pebble Beach Co. has proposed to pay for the $13-$15 million water reclamation project in exchange for a water entitlement of half the drinkable water the project will release from use on the company's golf courses. The company plans to use the water to complete its buildout plans for the forest, which allow up to 900 new residential units.

In total, the project will release about 800 acre feet of potable water, half which will go to Pebble Beach Co. The Monterey Peninsula Water Management District board will decide what to do with the remaining 400 acre feet.

The meeting is scheduled for 2 p.m., Thursday, April 13 at Poppy Hills Golf Course, 3200 Lopez Road, Pebble Beach.

The reclaimed water will be used on the golf courses instead of drinkable water.

The pipeline to deliver the water to the golf courses will run under Carmelo Street in Carmel on through most of Pebble Beach along Forest Lake Road.

Spring flings

IN THE spring, not only do thoughts turn to love, but to awards, honors, music, gourmet dining, and plans for more spring time social fun and frolicking.

Two gentlemen were guests at the Soroptimist International of Carmel Bay Awards Luncheon: William Moritz, a senior at Robert Louis Stevenson School, (honored for his outstanding achievements), and his teacher Cole Thompson.

Bill (an Eagle Scout), is editor of the RLS yearbook and the newspaper, does a lot of community work, won three awards at the county fair for his ceramics creations and has received the "White Stage Leadership Award." Bill said, "So it is not surprising that his purpose in life is 'elevating mankind.' He plans a college major in medicine or engineering. Mr. Thompson extended his praise as Bill received "The Youth Citizenship Award" from Soroptimist Elizabeth Gramatico.

Awards were presented after Soroptimist members and guests enjoyed a delicious luncheon by the sun-bathed Courtyard of the Fountains at Anton & Michel's. The only diversions during lunch were glancing at the fountain, welcome conversations, and fashions from Cache and Sensations in Carmel shown by the busiest model around — pretty Dottie Murphy.

Penny Morris, club president, introduced the presenters, who gave "Women of Distinction Awards" to Carmel author Riane Eisler (presented by Kate Breuleaux); Jean Grace, mayor of Carmel-by-the-Sea, and city councilwoman Elinor Laiola (by Lee Chamberlin, who won the first WOD Award); Karin Strasser Kauffman (supervisor), given by Jane Ellerbe. Michele Welsh received the "Women Helping Women Award" presented by Lorraine Flaherty (who gave each recipient a tulip).

Riane Eisler, author of the highly acclaimed book The Chalice and The Blade, as well as Disolution and The Equal Rights Handbook, says she is planning three more books. She taught at U of C Law School and Immaculate Heart College in LA, and is founder of the LA Women's Center Legal Program (the first in the USA), and Center for Partnership Studies based in Pacific Grove. She has spoken at many international conferences.

Welsh, a director at Monterey School of Law, member of ACLU, said she became a lawyer to help women. Her partners are all women (selecting the best qualified). She said, "One case at a time, hopefully, we will make a difference."

Mayor Grace moved here in 1978 and in less than 10 years became the top city official. Elinor Laiola taught school in Germany, Italy, and Richmond (Ca.), and was acquainted with the founder of Soroptimist. Karin, who taught political science for 15 years, said she was particularly grateful to the women in her life, her grandmother, mother, aunts, her women assistants and to all women.

When "spring-time awards fever" hit the Quota Club of Carmel, Rancho Canada Country Club was selected as the setting for its luncheon.

Quota president, Allana Corbat, said the club has had the most successful fund-raising year in its history. With only 16 active members (out of 24), the club has put $7,000 in equipment for Special Education Department for the hearing impaired for the Monterey County school systems during '88. Donations and equipment to YWCA (Women Against Domestic Violence Shelter), Hospice, MCAD, MADD, Genesis House, Carmel Convalescent Care, MPC Scholarship, Hearing Ear Dog Program, Salvation Army, Buddy Program and others, totaling $19,000 in the past two years.

Bill Hill, captain of Carmel Fire Department, received a "Jaws of Life." Quota Carmel Ways and Means chairwoman Bernice Baldwin presented monetary awards to Visiting Nurse Association Share Program for stroke victims and the MPC Special Services Department.

Visitors included several members of the Carmel fire and police departments, Carmel Hill Fire Department and the MPC staff people.

Awards. Awards. The Silver Key Club of Driftwood Convalescent Hospital, Monterey, presented the Silver Reel Award to Mr. Kit Parker (of Kit Parker films).

Ms. Joan Fontaine made the presentation to honor Mr. Parker for donating thousands of reels of motion picture enjoyment to residents of skilled nursing and handicapped facilities over a period of more than 13 years.

Attending the champagne reception in the bright cheerful dining room of Driftwood were Francois Martin, owner of the (former) CV Tantamount Theatre where Mrs. Parker worked as a young adult many years ago. Paul Evertsberg, who handles projection at Driftwood, presented Kit with two of the original demitasse cups used at the Tantamount. Nick Williams entertained at the keyboard with oldies-but-goodies.

ANOTHER PRESTIGIOUS award was truly earned. A local lady became a member of a professional group with only 20 members in California, 150 in the entire country, and 2,000 in 23 countries worldwide.

What would you do if you wished to have 4,000 white roses shipped to someone you love today...say in Cairo? To whom would you go if you wanted to buy a townhouse immediately with comfortable accommodations for your dogs? You wanted two front-row seats on the shady side of the arena for the bullfights in Lima, Peru? You must find an important business book lost "somewhere at the San Jose airport?" Who would be the miracle worker? A hotel concierge, of course.

The first two requests were arranged by concierges at Paris' Meurice and Inter-Continental Hotels. The latter were accomplished by Elaine Higgins, concierge of the Monterey Sheraton Hotel.

Is it any wonder that Elaine was just accepted into the exclusive Les Clefs d'Or (The Gold Keys). Some have said that gaining this membership is akin to gaining sainthood...a few miracles are required.

After years of amazement at miracles performed by European and Oriental concierges, at long last, American hotels realize the need for this vital service to travelers.

Wouldn't you say that Elaine deserves a party? The proud Sheraton staff, from General Manager Bill Hurley down, gave her one (with a special guest list), in the two-story John Steinbeck Suite with its balcony, breathtaking views of the bay, Monterey, Seaside and beyond. Wines bubbled around a fabulous buffet.

Elaine, born in Salisbury, England (English mother, American father), came to the U.S. in '77 as an au pair on Fifth Avenue in New York, then joined the Hyatt group in N.J. before transferring to the Monterey Hyatt Regency. She married Milton Higgins (a chef), and they moved to Hyatt Union Square, SF before returning to the MP where Elaine joined the Sheraton in a job she always wanted — that of concierge. Now, as a member of Les Chefs d'Or she has happily found her true profession. She is fluent in French and has a growing fluency in Japanese. She has joined the pros who say, "How can we hope to do our job unless we have demanding guests?"

Congratulations, Elaine.

THE BEST Bach's lunch ever given honored J.S. Bach on his 304th birthday. Bet Bach would have loved it too, as did the more than 80 guests who came to Delfino's at the Monterey Plaza Hotel.

The music of the Monterey String Quartet welcomed and entertained guests throughout the gourmet luncheon, with courses appropriately named: Prelude, Seravande, Presto and lovingly prepared by executive chef Ercalino Cugnale.

KBACH (KBOQ) radio's David Wittrock was emcee for the party sponsored by The Plaza, Carmel Bach Festival, Dick Bruhn's, Country Home Care, Packwoods Galleries and KBACH. Anne Scoville, president of CBF, spoke briefly, as did William Lee, owner of KBOQ, who interrupted his Palm Springs vacation to attend. The Bach Festival dates for '89 are July 17-Aug. 6.

THE BEST of food and wine, the best of music, happy friendly people and lovely surroundings. All of these came together Sunday evening in the beautiful Monterey Plaza Hotel's Delfino's Restaurant when more than two dozen Les Toques Blanches Medallions on gold chains and satin-backed ribbons added sparkle and color to an already glamorous evening.

It was hats off to the ladies and gentlemen in white hats who make sure that we have available on the Monterey Peninsula the finest food in the world — "Les Toques Blanches International." The organization originated in France, and now has chapters all over the world, with the MP group being one of only a few in the United States. It is restricted to those elite chefs who have proven to be the best in their profession.

Bert Cutino (Sardine Factory co-owner), was sought out as a member in Los Angeles before starting the local chapter, which has members from as far north as San Francisco. The group is slowly building and four more medallions were presented at the Third Annual LTB Dinner by president

New members are: Peter d'Andrea (CV Ranch Resort), Tony Salameh (Anton & Michel's), Francesco Emma (Banfi Vintners), and Tom Hlasny (Southern Wine Spirits).

Rep. Leon Panetta was to be inducted, but Bert announced that he received an urgent request to return to Washington and was unable to attend. All the guests were more than willing to return next Sunday night for his induction, but alas, it is not to be.

Panetta will be honored for his contributions on behalf of the hospitality industry. Currently, he is working on a resolution to set aside a week to honor the culinary profession.

Steve Givens, who says he never misses an opportunity to visit the MP, predicts that LTB will become the most recognized rather than the largest organization in America. However, Steve had to head south right away to check on some 38 chefs who are donating time to raise funds for the homeless in L.A.

Leitzinger (of Victorian House) was emcee, Glenn Crisham spoke of the wines served and Steve Pagano (food and beverage manager, The Plaza), explained food selection and preparation of the six-course dinner. A. Cal and Sissy Rossi (owners of the Plaza), also attended.

Now, back to the artistic creations of Delfino's Chef de Cuisine, Cugnale. There aren't words to describe the sublime dinner so beautifully prepared by the staff that includes Dave Brophy, Susan Peiper, Gene Bronn and Sam Karl and served under the supervision of Maitre d'Hotel Scott Stillinger and Rafael Lozano.

Making really good consomme is truly an art and the light consomme with roasted shallots and bone marrow reached new artistic heights, as did each one of the courses. The rack of lamb was sheer perfection and the curled green fern shoots called "fiddleheads" were a first for me and what a delightful surprise! Don't look for them in your supermarkets, these are always on special order only.

The carefully chosen wines came from Jepson Mendocino Estate, Caymus and Boeger Estate — their Johannisberg Riesling was light and delicious with Carmelized Apple Tarte Tartin. The final touch was a chocolate symbolic white hat with truffle and petit fours.

We all eat every day, but it's great to experience an evening of elegant dining.

ENJOYING A 1985 Jepson Mendocino Estate Blanc de Blanc Champagne were Craig and Cynthia Ling (of Creme Carmel), Tracy Gentry (Michael's Catering), Glenn Grisham, and Tony Salameh (Anton & Michel's).

In the spring, fancies often turn to fun-'n'-frolic' such as Bud Allen Hookers Ball, a definite doldrums dasher, held on April Fool's Day. Sadly, sans Bud. However, his spirit of lightheartedness prevailed.

At the entrance of the Mission Ranch Barn black scanty lingerie, a red garter, a balloon head with painted face and curly paper hair ringlets bespoke the evening ahead — La Dolce Vita with its faux hedonistic style of living.

Judges Donel Geisen, Susie Faia and Chris Tescher found the appropriate titles in selecting costume winner, and the winners are:

Ball chairman Merv Sutton, exotic, erotic and gorgeous (both in real life and in costume), won the "Fredericks of Hollywood Award." He came in a shimmering short green dress, a curly orange wig and batting eyelashes at least six inches long. Who could resist?

Emcee and auctioneer David Armanasco brought in $1,400 for FOCUS (Friends Of Carmel Unified Schools). A reverse bidding (for lawyers only — for "The Shark"), was done tongue-in-cheek. Starting at $1,000, Sidney Morris finally won "The Shark" (a windsock), for $100. All the fun and all in fun for the Carmel school kiddies.

Dancing to the music of Dealer's Choice Band was the popular pastime 'til the witching hour arrived.

FUTURE FUN...Like the English, the people of the Central Coast are interested in gardens and flowers. Our climates are similar and we share an interest in outdoor beautification.

The Central Coast Garden Show has been in the planning stages for more than a year with its theme, "The Best in California Living." T will be a spectacularly big and beautiful show I am told by Friends of Hospice when the Monterey Fairgrounds will become "Enchanting Gardens" April 28-30. So, look out Chelsea Flower Show and look out for English people who will participate.

Sheila Macqueen V.M.H., (author and lecturer, BBC star and floral arranger for the Royal Family in jolly ole England), will give a benefit lecture/demo on "Flower Arranging From Your Garden," April 26 (10:30 a.m.), at The Inn at Spanish Bay with champagne finale courtesy of the PB Co. (donation $20).

Margaret O (for Oliver), and Isabel Crossen, formerly from England, arranged for the English celebrity's trip. MP's Ann Patrick (of Flowers Ltd.), who formerly prettied up for royalty, lectures April 28 (10 a.m.), in the Salinas Room at the fairgrounds on "Handsome Arrangements for Royalty and You."

Other lectures include: "Bug Out," "Someone's in the Kitchen with Flora," "Garden For Eating," "Spa in Japanese Garden," "Deer Resistant," "Garden for Art" by various authorities, and "Garden Therapy" (by Rev. Paul Anker of Carmel). Lectures are free with admission to the show ($7, $6 for seniors and children free with adults).

This first Central Coast Garden Show will open with a gala Thursday, April 27 at 7 o'clock in the Monterey Room. Music, a fashion show, presentation of awards, international hors d'oeuvres by Chef of the Year, Don Ferch, strolls through the beautiful gardens and exhibits with the finale "A Chocolate Garden" in the Salinas Room. Friends of Hospice welcome guests at $50 each.

THE LOCAL Hadassah chapter, in conjunction with Hanson Gallery in Carmel, invites the public to a lecture/slide presentation on Erte at 7 p.m. April 18 by Mr. Stephan, president of the Art Deco Society of SF. Send $10 for reservations (made out to Hadassah), to Hanson Gallery, Box 5568, Carmel 93921.

Challenge is set for April 22-23 at Lincoln Lanes and Valley Center Bowl. A golf tournament on April 30 at Rancho Canada Golf Club (with dinner/dance in the evening), and a DeLorean Sweepstakes, all to benefit Natividad Medical Center of Monterey County, with a goal of $100,000 to purchase a mammogram unit.

Chairmen are Nick Lombardo, Phil Lombardi, Ben Tucker and Jim Svetich, with all events coordinated by Joan Pease. For info call Joan at 373-7993 or Cherie Stock at Natividad.

UPDATES: Former President and Mrs. Reagan have been invited to the Fabulous '50s Party set for April 22. After all, he was a movie star back then. After a fall that required six stitches, hope that Doris Day will be able to auction a dance. Dinah Shore will sing. Alice Faye Harris, Allen Funt and The Beach Boys will attend. On the auction specials: a beautifully restored '50s car, a trip for two to Paris, five nights in Hawaii, and a stay at John Gardiner's Tennis Ranch. ### Beat the Quake!

GOV. GEORGE Deukmejian has proclaimed the month of April as California Earthquake Preparedness Month. The Governor's Office of Emergency Services urges all Californians to "Beat the Quake!"

The threat of a major earthquake in the state of California is a real one. Scientists estimate the probabilities of an earthquake in the San Francisco Bay area with a magnitude of 7.0 or greater at 20 percent within the next 10 years and 50 percent within the next 30 years. In 1980, the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) prepared a report for President Carter in which they said that "the aggregate probability for a catastrophic earthquake in the whole of California in the next three decades is well in excess of 50 percent."

Even moderate earthquakes can do major damage. In October 1987, the Whittier-Narrows earthquake, 5.9 on the Richter Scale, caused eight deaths, more than 200 injuries and $358 million property damage. In April 1984 a 6.2 earthquake in Morgan Hill caused over 20 injuries and $10 million property damage.

If you live in California—even along the Central Coast—for your own safety you cannot ignore the earthquake threat. The experts report that the Monterey Bay area is as susceptible to earthquake damage as any place in California.

MAKE A FAMILY EARTHQUAKE PLAN

During an earthquake, stay away from heavy furniture, appliances, large panes of glass, shelves holding heavy objects, and masonry veneer. These items tend to fall or break and can injure you. Usually, a hallway is one of the safest places in a home. Kitchens and garages tend to be the most dangerous.

Before the quake, a plan should be made with all the possible exits from your home. Also, know the location of shutoff valves for water, gas and electricity, and how to operate them. If you are not sure, contact the utility company or your local fire department.

Encourage your family to participate in earthquake drills. Emergency procedures should be reviewed and practiced periodically. Earthquake drills consist of the following three steps:

1. PRACTICE TAKING COVER: Practice taking cover as if an earthquake were taking place. This will make people aware of the safest places in their immediate environment.
2. PRACTICE EXITING: Walk through the possible escape routes from your home. Check to see if the planned exits are clear, and if they could become blocked in an earthquake.
3. PRACTICE SHUTOFF: Practice turning off electricity and water at your home. Be sure everyone knows how to do this, and can do it quickly. Know how to turn off the gas, but do not practice this step. For safety reasons, once the gas is turned off only the utility company should turn it back on.

CHECKLIST FOR SAFETY

- Decide how and where your family will reunite if separated.

- Choose an out-of-state friend or relative that separated family members can call after the quake to report their whereabouts and condition.
- Know the safe spots in each room.
- Know the danger spots.
- Conduct practice drills.
- Learn first aid and CPR from the American Red Cross. Call the Carmel Chapter at 624-6921 for more information on first aid and CPR classes.
- Keep a list of emergency telephone numbers.
- Learn how to shut off gas, electricity, and water connections.
- Check chimneys, roofs, walls, and foundations for stability.
- Secure your water heater and other gas appliances that could move enough to sever the gas lines.
- Keep breakables and heavy objects on lower shelves.
- Secure heavy picture frames or mirrors, especially over beds.
- Maintain emergency food, water, and other supplies, including a flashlight, portable battery-powered radio, extra batteries, medicines, first aid kit, and clothing.

In the next three weeks, I will be reporting on more earthquake safety tips, and what local government and emergency services are doing to prepare for an earthquake in the Monterey Bay region.

For more information about this topic, please contact your local fire department.

SENIOR LINE

By Bill Schneider

Skunk tax

Q. AS a method for financing the Medicare Catastrophic Expansion Act, the surtax stinks. Why not levy a surtax on every school age child to improve our schools? Why not a tax on every motor vehicle owner to finance highway construction and repairs? Why not just a Value Added Tax (VAT) on everything manufactured to finance the whole kit and caboodle?

BR, Carmel

A. I agree with your sentiment but not necessarily the solution, even though some aspects are intriguing. Let me offer a few points of concern I have with the act.

Estimates are that fewer than 4 percent of the elderly will benefit from the expanded hospitalization and elimination of multiple deductible provisions annually.

More than 70 percent of seniors have either Medigap policies, receive employer sponsored health insurance coverage, are members of Health Maintenance Organizations, or are otherwise insured against catastrophic/acute illnesses.

No one can predict how high the surtax may go. Scheduled increases raise the $800 per individual ($1,600 per couple) maximum liability in 1989 to $1,050 ($2,100 per couple) by 1993. The costs are open-ended and the coverage is not as complete as the bill's name implies.

Although the law provides a cap of $1,370 on out-of-pocket covered physician expenses in 1990, it will realistically require approximately $6,500 in total physician charges to reach $1,370 in eligible out-of-pocket costs since 20 percent of all costs and the doctor's charges over Medicare allowable limits will continue to be the patient's responsibility. The $1,370 cap is already estimated to grow to $1,900 by 1993 according to the Congressional Budget Office.

At this time I won't go into the change in principle involved in this type of financing or possible solutions to the mess created since I fear I'm beginning to sound like a broken record.

An article in the March 1989 issue of Retirement Life explains in more detail the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) pilot program to insure home equity conversion mortgages. A total of 2,500 mortgages may be insured in the program which will run through Sept. 30, 1991 and is open to people 62 years old or more with little or no mortgage debt remaining on their property.

Tenure, Term and Line of Credit mortgages will all provide a source of income for the homeowner by converting the amount of equity in the home into a mortgage issued by a lender and insured by the Federal Housing Administration (FHA).

Tenure mortgages provide for monthly payments from lenders to homeowners for as long as they occupy the home as principal residence. Term mortgages provide for monthly payments for a fixed period agreed upon between the lender and the borrower. Line of Credit mortgages permit homeowners to draw money at times and in amounts of their own choosing. Each of these mortgages may bear interest at a fixed or adjustable rate.

In addition, if the principal balance of the mortgages grows to exceed the value of the property, a homeowner cannot be displaced and forced to sell the home. Homeowners can sell their property at any time, and proceeds in excess of the amount needed to pay off the mortgage will revert to the homeowner.

The program is expected to begin in late spring, following publication of final rules. Application may then be made at the Department of Housing & Urban Development, 450 Golden Gate Ave., San Francisco, Ca. 94102-3448 (Tel: 415-556-5900).

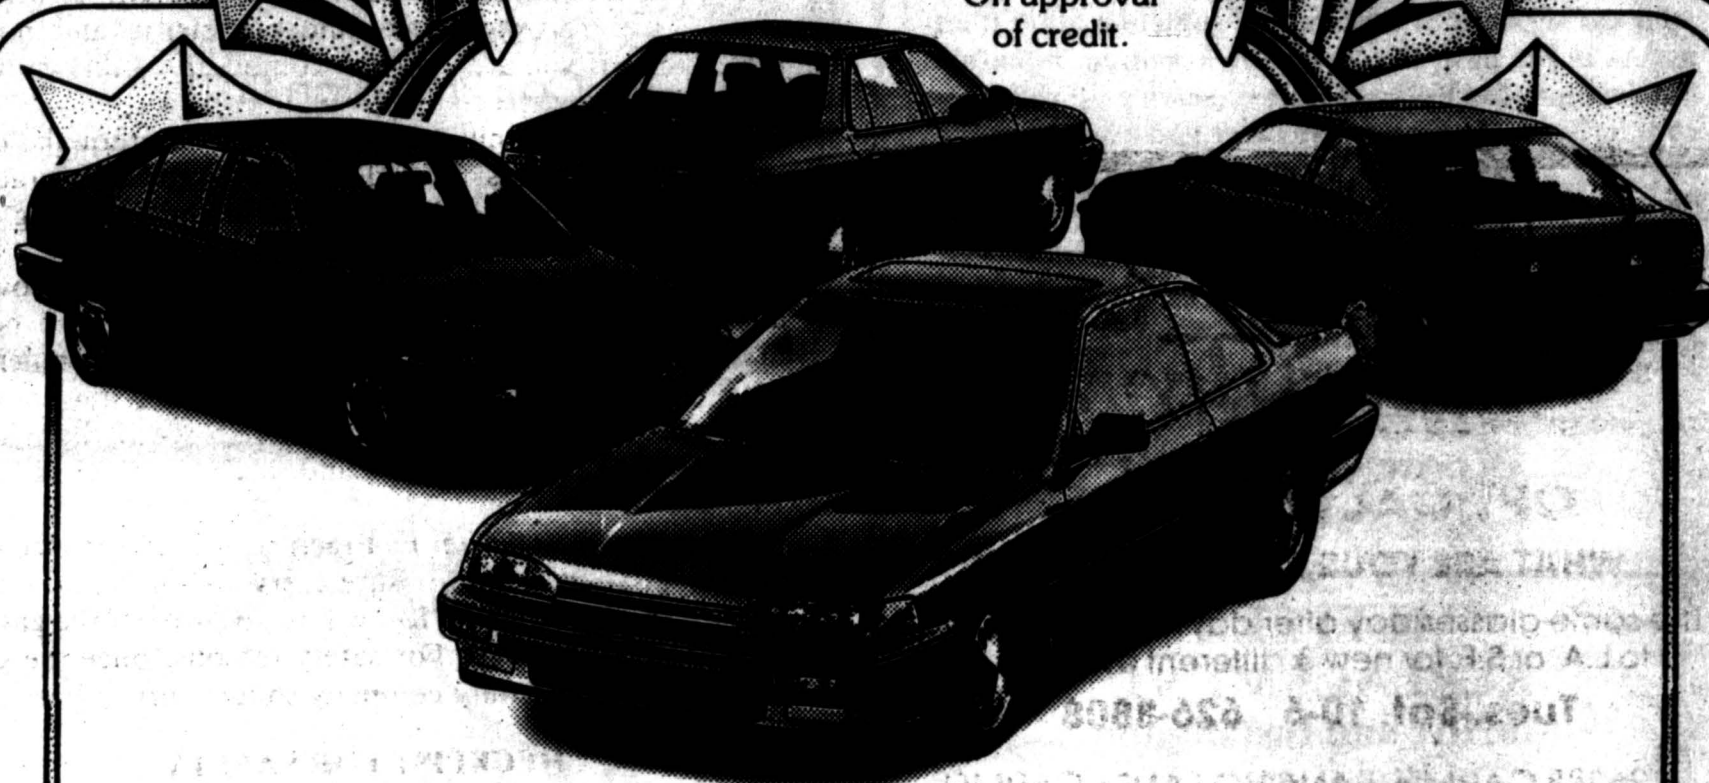

(Need information on senior affairs? Write Senior Line, Area Agency on Aging, 1184 Monroe Street, Suite 10, Salinas, Ca. 93906 or call 372-7662. Senior Line needs your name, address and phone number but these will be withheld on request. Printed letters may be edited to meet space requirements.)

MARRIAGE & FAMILY

...with
MARCIA RENNEY,
MFCC

HOW OLD AM I?

At times it seems our society has a twisted idea about age. Most of us want to be an age that we are not. When we are little all of our focus is directed to when we are grown up. As we progress through life most of us do not want to be older. We reverse ourselves and seek in everyway to capture and retain our youth. Those caught in their middle years wish for that age when they are not saddled with so many responsibilities; jobs, children, mortgage.

In many ways our culture pushes children to "grow up" and causes seniors to fear their old age. Confusion about where you are in your life's cycle causes dissatisfaction and distress. Counseling can assist in understanding normal growth and development patterns and in easing this confusion.

If you have any questions regarding this week's subject, please feel free to call MARCIA RENNEY, Licensed Marriage, Family & Child Counselor. 142 Carmelito, Monterey, 372-6599.

MONTEREY COUNTY CULTURAL COUNCIL ELECTS NEW OFFICERS AND MEMBERS

The Monterey County Cultural Council (MCCC) Board of Directors elected new officers and members at their annual meeting on March 29.

Attorney Roderick L. Dewar was reelected to a year's term as board president; John Totten, vice-president of instruction at Hartnell College, was re-elected to a year's term as treasurer; and Robin Venuti, development director at the Bach Festival was elected to a year's term as secretary.

The Cultural Council has expanded its board membership to 25. New members elected to serve a three-year term were: Shirley Nimmons, a development consultant; Lloyd Morain, chairman of the Illinois Gas Co. and editor of The Humanist; and Elizabeth Pasquinielli, a computer consultant.

New members elected to a two-year term were: Nell Fern, superintendent of the Monterey Peninsula Unified School District; Hillis Johnson, president of the Salinas Valley Friends of Hospice; Lyn Hayes, a publicist; and Bill Pollard, superintendent of the Salinas City School District.

The new members elected for a year term were: Lib Downey, executive director of the Lyceum of the Monterey Peninsula; Nancy McClintock, a retired teacher; and artist Jean Brenner.

MCCC members re-elected were Roderick Dewar for a year's term and Morgan Stock for a three-year term.

For further information, call Linda Bellon-Fisher at MCCC, 424-3043.

CARMEL AREA STUDENTS TAKE SECOND IN POSTER CONTEST

Eighty-seven children entered the Monterey County Fair poster contest and two Carmel area children took second-place awards.

Robbie Hunter, a kindergartener at Tularcitos school in Carmel Valley, won $25, as did Melanie Hudson of Carmel, a fourth-grader at Waldorf School.

Posters were judged on how well they convey the fair's message or theme, this year, "Oceans of Fun." Valerie Jung, a first-grader from Salinas, won the contest. Her poster will become the official poster for the 1989 Monterey County Fair.

JUNIPERO SERRA SCHOOL CELEBRATES NO. 45

In conjunction with its 45th anniversary, Junipero Serra School will hold a reunion dinner-dance, "45 Years of Memories," Saturday, April 15 at the Hyatt Regency Monterey. Dance music will be provided by Mike Marotta Jr. Band.

All former students, their parents, staff and friends are invited to attend. For more information call the school at 624-8322 or Linda Manester Carr at 646-0105.

VENTANA WILDERNESS SANCTUARY TO HOST MASTER FALCONER APRIL 6

The Ventana Wilderness Sanctuary will hold a special meeting at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, April 6 at Estrada Adobe in Monterey.

The group will present Morley Nelson, master falconer and one of the first pioneers of raptor conservation. Nelson, who has done film work for Walt Disney Pictures, will give a slide presentation at the meeting.

The event is open to the public; refreshments will be served. For more information call Nell Newman, sanctuary executive director, at 429-4623.

ST. ANGELA'S TO HOLD SILENT AUCTION APRIL 9

St. Angela's Church Altar Society will hold a silent auction from 8 a.m. until 2 p.m. Sunday, April 9 at St. Angela's Church Library, Ninth and Lighthouse avenues, Pacific Grove. Items to be auctioned include china and silverware. Bidding will close promptly at 2 p.m.

WALK PLANNED OF HATTON CANYON FREEWAY ROUTE

Members of the California Native Plant Society will host a walk through controversial Hatton Canyon starting at 1 p.m. Saturday, April 8 behind Brinton's at the Carmel Rancho Shopping Center at the mouth of the valley.

A two-hour shuttle and walk will give participants a first-hand look at location of the proposed freeway and the plants endangered by construction of the freeway.

Leader will be Corky Matthews. The walk is free and open to the public. For more information call 659-2528.

STAFF WIVES CLUB TO HOLD FASHION SHOW APRIL 13

The Staff Wives Club of the Naval Postgraduate School will hold its April luncheon and fashion show (by Talbots of Carmel), at 11:30 a.m. Thursday, April 13 in La Novia Room Terrace, NPS. Reservations are required by April 11: Lorraine Cornelius, 395-5612; Adrienne Denk, 625-3928; or Beth Lindsay, 484-1213.

WESTERNERS PROGRAM ON MONTEREY'S ADOBES SET FOR APRIL 10

A program on Monterey's adobes will be on tap at the next meeting of the Monterey County Corral of Westerners. The meeting is scheduled for Monday, April 10, at St. John's Parish Hall in Monterey. The program, starting at 8 p.m., is free and is open to the public.

The speaker will be Col. Richard D. McFarland of Pebble Beach. McFarland is best known locally for his work with the Allen Knight Maritime Museum, of which he is curator.

Westerners is an international organization of people interested in the history of the American West. Independent chapters, or "corrals" are found throughout the world. The Monterey County Corral of Westerners meets on the second Monday of the month throughout the year, at St. John's Parish Hall, Mark Thomas Drive and Josselyn Canyon Road in Monterey.

A potluck dinner at 7 p.m. is followed by a program at 8. Further information is available at the meetings or by calling Raymond Kelly at 624-4490 or Art Benoit at 375-5055.

AMERICAN CANCER SOCIETY SETS ORIENTATION DATE FOR VOLUNTEER DRIVERS

Recruitment is underway for the Drive To Win program of the American Cancer Society.

Under the program volunteer drivers transport cancer patients to and from medical facilities for treatment. Last year volunteer drivers from Monterey and San Benito counties made more than 1,300 trips transporting 120 cancer patients to their treatments.

However, drivers are still desperately needed especially in Prunedale and the North County area.

According to Ernest Geer, program chairperson, "Cancer patients are very special people. I learn something new from each one. Our drivers feel they get far more than they give."

The new volunteers will attend an orientation program on Wednesday, April 12 at the Salinas Valley Memorial Hospital from 7 to 9 p.m. They will learn about the American Cancer Society's patient services, what is involved in cancer treatment,

Isuzu Amigo

By Jim Johnson

Isuzu Expands Market With Amigo

ESTABLISHED IN 1978, American Isuzu has emerged as a competitive force within the sports utility and light truck markets.

The company now markets a diverse range of automotive products that includes the I-Mark sedan and three-door subcompact; Impulse sports coupe; Trooper II sports utility vehicle; a wide variety of two- and four-wheel drive pickup trucks and the new Amigo sports utility vehicle.

With distinctive styling and aggressive four-wheel drive stance, the new Amigo represents a departure from the luxury sports utility vehicle success Isuzu has enjoyed with the Trooper II, according to John E. Reilly, senior vice president and general manager of American Isuzu Motors Inc.

"The Amigo, while far from being spartan, takes a more forceful approach to the market. It's a sporty, around-town utility vehicle that at the same time takes its off-highway abilities seriously."

In a departure from similar sports utility vehicles, the new Amigo is not fully enclosed, with the rear cargo or seating area fitted with a vinyl/canvas top. That versatility is further enhanced by offering the Amigo in either two- or four-wheel drive modes.

After a short road test one realizes that the new Amigo's sporty aggressive image (standard colors are limited to: Flare Red, Spark Blue, Cloud Grey and Peach), is more than skin deep.

Starting at its box section ladder-type frame with six crossmembers and extending to its double-wall cargo bed, the Amigo is all business. The rugged characteristics stem from the shared engineering use of already proven mechanical components from the Isuzu Pickup.

A choice of powerplants is available for the Amigo, starting with the standard 96-horsepower 2.3-liter in-line four-cylinder engine with aluminum cross-flow cylinder head, cast iron block, five main bearing crankshaft, two-barrel carburetor and transistorized ignition.

Optional in the two-wheel drive Amigo and standard on the four-wheel drive model is a potent new 2.6-liter four-cylinder, fuel-injected engine which is rated at a healthy 120-horsepower and 146 foot-pounds of torque. Our test vehicle was two-wheel drive with the optional 120-horsepower engine. It accelerated through fifth gear smoothly and maintained freeway speed effortlessly.

The independent double wishbone front suspension, with rear leaf springs, gave the Amigo surprisingly neutral cornering character. With four-wheel disc brakes and plenty of torque we had fun getting acquainted while running out and back San Benancio Canyon Road.

Throughout the course of our visit I was impressed with the Amigo's comfort and manageable feel. Seats with cloth inserts lend warmth to the interior, which is very clean and effectively designed. Interior noise level is very low for this class of vehicle.

Salinas Ford Dealer and Carmel Valley resident Ron Freberg was kind enough to make arrangements through Leslie Leslie of Salinas Valley Ford for the use of their new Amigo. Because our Flame Red Amigo was their only unsold unit and not a factory press car, we were reluctant to drive off-road. With 8 inches of ground clearance and 146 foot-pounds of torque I am sure it has enough off-road personality to expand Isuzu's reputation for building tough dependable off-highway sports utility vehicles.

MONTEREY OUTREACH

VOLUNTEER EXHIBITION (MOVE) APRIL 8

Have you considered doing volunteer work at some point in your life, but haven't? It isn't that you don't want to help those in need, but are confused about which type of volunteer agency to contact.

The time to make your MOVE is on Saturday, April 8 at Monterey's first Outreach Volunteer Exhibition (MOVE) sponsored by Del Monte Shopping Center and the Volunteer Center of the Monterey Peninsula. Between 10 a.m. and 5 p.m. more than 30 different human service agencies will be displaying exhibits to interest and inform you about the valuable services they provide throughout the Monterey Peninsula.

The exhibition is free; entertainment will be provided by clowns, bands, other performing artists, and there will be giveaways. All are welcome to come and visit the volunteer agency that best matches their own special interests and skills. For details call 373-6177.

The march is being held on the same day as a nationwide demonstration scheduled for Washington, D.C., where thousands of supporters of the Right-to-Choice are expected to gather in support of the 15-year-old decision of Roe vs. Wade. A similar march is being held in San Francisco on April 2, a week early so participants can travel to Washington on April 9.

A small segment of the population is seeking to overturn the Roe vs. Wade decision of 1973 which recognized that pregnant women are entitled to the same right of privacy enjoyed by others, including the right to choose whether or not to have an abortion.

Men and women who support reproductive rights, and who are concerned about the current threat to these rights are urged to attend the rally and march and/or write or phone the White House about that concern.

FOURTH ANNUAL MONTEREY WINE FESTIVAL AUCTION RAISES $45,360

With $1,600 bid for an 18-liter, 1985 Reserve Cabernet Sauvignon from J. Lohr Winery, Monterey Wine Festival Committee Chairman Dick Cregar topped the bidding during the fourth annual Monterey Wine Festival auction, held March 14 at the Monterey Conference Center. All told, the live and silent auctions raised $45,360, with proceeds going to the Andre Tchelistcheff Scholarship Fund to further enological and viticultural studies.

"I wanted to give something back to the wine industry which is such a fundamental part of foodservice," said Cregar of his high bid. The festival chairman plans to save the beautifully-bottled wine for a very special occasion such as the marriage of his youngest daughter, now 16.

Other high bidders in the live auction included National Restaurant Association Past President Ted Balestreri, of the Sardine Factory in Monterey who bid $1,100 for an Imperial (6 liter) 1978 Cabernet Sauvignon "Rutherford" from Beaulieu Vineyard; and Van Eure, of Raleigh, N.C., who bid $1,000 for a Salamanazar (9 liter) 1987 Le Cigare Volant from Bonny Doon Vineyard.

High bidders in the silent auction included festival attendee Gary Grafffield who bid $310 on a Double Magnum 1985 Cabernet Sauvignon from Robert Pepi Winery, and festival attendee Bob Wilson who bid $210 on a vertical selection (1980, 81, 82, 83, 84, 85) of Cabernet Sauvignon from Ridge Vineyards.

Presided over by the internationally-renowned Christie's auction house, the auction featured over 150 big-bottled California wines, some packaged exclusively for the event. Christopher Hartop, vice president of Christie's New York, served as auctioneer.

The Monterey Wine Festival, sponsored by the National Restaurant Association, was held March 12-14 in Monterey. More than 1,000 people attended the event. The dates for next year's festival are March 18-20, 1990.

INCUMBENTS CONTINUE AS SENIOR LEGISLATORS

Nora Loe, Salinas activist for senior citizens has captured 49 percent of the votes cast for the Senate seat of the California

Senior Legislature. In the election held on March 21, for registered voters 60 years and older, Loe retained her seat as Senior Senator for a fifth term.

John McCune, a retired Army colonel and chairman of the Area Agency on Aging Advisory Council, was unopposed for the seat he holds in the Senior Assembly.

Challenging Loe were: Franette Bell, Margaret Osborne and Jaime Zamora.

Monterey County elects one Senior Assembly Representative and one Senior Senator every two years to the California Senior Legislature. Often called the "Silver Haired Legislature," seniors from all over the state meet each October in the state Capitol for a mock legislative session. At the culmination of the session, 10 priority bills relating to seniors, are selected in hopes of them being introduced in the regular Legislature. Better than 60 percent of the seniors' legislation is eventually enacted into state law.

The election was conducted by the Monterey County Area Agency on Aging and the League of Women Voters.

Burlingame and Kim Parker Associates of Milpitas, earned first place victories for landscapes in Monterey County when the California Landscape Contractors Association recently handed out its Trophy Awards at its annual convention in Scottsdale, Ariz.

Munkdale Bros. received first place in the Commercial Renovation category for landscaping the Scenic Road between Eighth Avenue and Martin Way in Carmel. Kim Parker Associates took first place in the Interiorscapes category for The Inn at Spanish Bay in Pebble Beach.

According to Rick Myers, chairman of CLCA's awards program, 212 projects were submitted for consideration throughout the state—the second highest total in the 33-year-old competition. Most of these entries were victorious in local competitions earlier in the year, he said.

Myers said the judges spent two weeks traveling the length and breadth of the state, visiting every site in order to name winners in each of 27 residential and commercial categories, plus eight special awards.

CLCA is the nation's oldest and largest organization of licensed landscape and irrigation contractors. The association's membership also includes landscape architects and suppliers, educators, public employees and students.

Mary M. Martin

A memorial Mass was celebrated March 13 at St. Angela's Catholic Church in Pacific Grove, for Mary M. Martin, a homemaker, who died March 7 at Monterey Pines Convalescent Hospital. She was 64.

Born Jan. 19, 1925 in Newman, she had been a Pacific Grove resident for the past 40 years.

Survivors include three sons, Gary Goulart of Pacific Grove, John Goulart of Monterey and Andrew Goulart of Salinas; and one grandchild.

Cremation took place at the Little Chapel by-the-Sea, followed by inurnment at El Carmelo Cemetery. The Paul Mortuary was in charge of arrangements.

Mary S. Hatton

Cremation took place at the Monterey City Cemetery, for Mary Salterbach Hatton, a 70-year resident of Carmel Valley, who died March 13 at Carmel Convalescent Hospital. She was 92.

Born March 16, 1896 in Pontiac, Mich., she had lived in Monterey County for 83 years and was a graduate of Monterey High School. She was the first chairwoman of the Monterey County Welfare Commission in 1934 and served in that position for 13 years.

She also was membership chairwoman of the Church of Religious Science in Monterey and a volunteer with the Carmel Red Cross during World War II.

Survivors include two daughters, Natalie Branson of Carmel Valley and Janice Pierce of Santa Cruz; a son, Peter of Point Reyes Station, five grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

Her husband, Howard, died in 1955. He was the youngest son of William and Kate Hatton, who came to Carmel Valley in 1875.

At her request, no services took place. The Mission Mortuary was in charge of arrangements.

The family suggests memorial contributions to the Monterey County Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals.

Wayne M. Sherman

Memorial services took place in the Los Angeles area, for Wayne Mills Sherman, a retired high school teacher, who burned to death March 13 near Palm Springs while serving as a volunteer firefighter. He was 63.

Born May 18, 1925, he lived in Carmel after retirement about five years ago. He taught for the Los Angeles Unified School District, and lived in Manhattan Beach while teaching in the ghetto areas of Los Angeles. A dedicated teacher, he turned down opportunities to become a school administrator because he preferred being in the classroom.

He was an Army veteran, and served as a volunteer firefighter throughout his life.

Survivors include his wife, Zaida, and a son, Michael Henry of Carmel.

Eliza May Groves

Eliza May Groves, a longtime Carmel resident, died March 15 at her home at Hacienda Carmel. She was 94.

Born May 9, 1894 in London, England, she and her late husband, Frank moved to Carmel in 1968 when he retired as an executive of the American Express Co.

For three years during World War II, they were imprisoned by the Japanese in the Santo Tomas Internment Camp in Manila, the Philippines. Mr. Groves died in 1980.

Mrs. Groves was a member of the Monterey Peninsula Country Club and the Beach and Tennis Club.

She leaves no survivors. At her request, no services took place. The Paul Mortuary was in charge of arrangements.

Memorial contributions are suggested to a charity of the donor's choice.

Charles Schultz

Graveside services took place March 17 at San Carlos Cemetery, for Charles W. Schultz of Pebble Beach, a retired developer and All-Pro lineman for the 1939 National Football League champion Green Bay Packers, who died March 15 at Community Hospital of the Monterey Peninsula. He was 73.

Born Oct. 8, 1915 in St. Paul, Minn., he lived on the peninsula for 45 years.

During his years at the University of Minnesota, he was named All-Conference in the Big 10 for the three years he played football there. He was an All-American on the 1936 national championship college team.

Mr. Schultz was drafted by the Packers in 1938, played for them for three years and was an All-Pro offensive tackle on the 1939 championship team. His playing career was cut short in 1942 when he was drafted into the Navy.

He served as a Navy lieutenant commander during World War II and was one of the first instructors stationed at the Naval Postgraduate School.

Survivors include his wife, Dorothy; a daughter, Alicia Goodwin of Pebble Beach; two brothers, James and Ted, both of St. Paul; a sister, Norinne McCarthy of St. Paul; and three grandchildren.

The Mission Mortuary was in charge of arrangements.

The family suggests memorial contributions to the Hospice of the Monterey Peninsula.

Margaret Ziegler

Memorial services took place March 17 at the Carmel Presbyterian Church, for Margaret W. Ziegler of Carmel Valley, who died March 14 at Community Hospital of the Monterey Peninsula. She was 79.

Born Nov. 27, 1909 in Cincinnati, she had lived in Carmel Valley for more than 30 years, and much of her life was devoted to art and music, which she studied during her years living in the Philippines and Japan.

After moving to Carmel Valley from Berkeley, where she lived for 10 years, Mrs. Ziegler's paintings were often displayed by the Carmel Art Association and other local galleries. Known for her landscape paintings, she was a prize-winner at the Monterey County Fair. She also did flower arranging which she learned in Japan, was an amateur pianist, and belonged to the Carmel Art Association.

Survivors include her husband of 56 years, James; a son, Paul of Santa Rosa; a daughter, Martha Wright of Big Sur, and four grandchildren.

Wilma P. Bixler

A Mass of Christian burial was celebrated March 20 at the Carmel Mission Basilica and recitation of the Rosary, followed by a prayer service, took place March 22 at the Franklin-Downs Colonial Chapel, for Wilma Podesta Baker of Carmel, who died March 18 at Community Hospital of the Monterey Peninsula. She was 78.

Born Oct. 16, 1910 in Modesto, she attended local schools. A resident of Carmel for 30 years, she was a homemaker and a parishioner of the Carmel Mission Basilica.

Survivors include a daughter, Marlene Massera of Carmel; three sisters, Josephine Travis, Mabel Casazza and Norma Atwood, all of Modesto; two brothers, Joseph and John Podesta, both of Modesto; and 15 nieces and nephews.

The family prefers memorial contributions to the Hospice of the Monterey Peninsula or Ave Maria Convalescent Hospital in Monterey.

Remembrance for Leander J. Crowe

Friends will gather together Sunday, April 9, from 2 to 6 p.m. to celebrate the life of Leander James Crowe of Carmel, known as Lee, who died Feb. 13 at his home at the age of 83.

FATHER FARRELL'S WISDOM

Serving others serves god

Carmel Pine Cone
March, 1982

Oh, almighty and eternal God, Father of love and kindness, help us to know Thy will and knowing it to have this courage to act as loyal sons for it is only by a life of unstinted service that we can serve Thee.

Some people will produce only when they are showered with praise and when verbal gratitude is heaped upon them. We call them prima donnas.

Man is meant to earn his living by the sweat of his brow. We are designed to work, just as a cloud is meant to bring rain, and rose bushes to bear roses.

When we try to live without God we are unhappy. The only way we can possess God is to serve our fellow man. Problems often crop up which block our road to service: ill health, worries and family problems.

Often we use up our energies in feeling sorry for ourselves and complain of a heavy load. We gripe that we are being let down by God and the world. The solution is to get on with the job.

The Golden Years

By Myles Williams

A study by the University of Southern California and the National Institute of Aging predicts there may be nearly 24 million Americans over 85 by the year 2040. That is double the estimate of the Census Bureau, and 10 times today's count. The main reason for the difference between the Census Bureau estimate and the new study: greater optimism by USC and Institute researchers as to progress in extending life.

When Cristina Rainsford, of Katonah, New York, was 53 she broke an ankle and took up poetry writing until she could return to tennis, her favorite pastime. That was in 1947. At 94, Mrs. Rainsford published her latest book, "Poems, New and Collected." Her advice to other older Americans: "Make a conscious effort to appreciate things you didn't take time to enjoy when younger." Aches and pains? Don't dwell on them. She quotes her father's advice: "How are you? is a greeting - not a question."

Remember When? February 5, 1937 - President Roosevelt, frustrated by Supreme Court rulings that upset some of his New Deal legislation, proposed that the number of justices be increased from nine to 15. If incumbent justices declined to retire at age 70, Congress rejected the proposal.

Measure A

By Clyde Klaumann

On March 7, Measure A was defeated, leaving many students, parents, and teachers upset. Measure A was to be an $80-a-year tax for four years, giving the Carmel Unified School District the money they needed to remove the asbestos from our schools, replace the ancient school buses, and upgrade the facilities.

All this could have been taken care of if people had been willing to pay a mere $6.67 a month. That can get you six lottery tickets and a pack of gum. Why buy the tickets (only a portion of it goes back to the schools), when you could have given it 100 percent directly to Carmel schools? The students and teachers are the ones at stake.

Would you enjoy sitting in a classroom where asbestos is present, or would you feel safe riding in a school bus with more than 300,000 miles on it (better yet, a car from the 1900s with that many miles on it)?

Even though there were more yes votes than no votes, the district still lost because it needed a two-thirds majority to win. That means we needed double the yes votes. I don't feel that that is fair or just. As many people said on election day, after all the votes were counted, "we won the battle but lost the war."

What's new in ASB

By Clyde Klaumann

The student government class, referred to as the A.S.B., has started a Club Senate and a Debate Club.

The Club Senate will consist of all CHS club presidents and team captains of sports. "This 'Club Senate' is a great idea," stated Marie Ishida (principal) after learning about it. The Club Senate is something that will hopefully develop and carry on after this year.

The Debate Club is also starting up. The first meeting was attended by over twenty students, and is being supervised by Mrs.

Walch. They hope they will be able to debate with other schools, but that may not be until next year.

I am impressed with both of these clubs, and respect those individuals participating in them.

(Other things to note:

the school constitution is being revised, please pick up a copy and get informed. Lastly, Sober Graduation, a concert at Laguna Seca promoting an alcohol-free graduation, is April 19.)

The silent slaughter

By Jon Gonzales

One of the greatest tragedies ever to face mankind is the Jewish holocaust. More than six million Jewish people were slaughtered by a madman and his compatriots.

Sadly, I see the same type of thing going on in the world today in the form of abortion. So far, 23 million abortions have been performed since Roe vs. Wade was handed down. Doesn't sound like all that much? It's the population of 11 states.

The reason I liken abortion to the Jewish holocaust is this: the Jewish people suffered because the German fascist movement had told everybody that the Jews were not really people. Since they were not true Aryans, they were not people and therefore, according to Hitler, deserved death.

The same thing happened to Africans until very recent history. Whites had declared that blacks were not truly human, therefore it was all right to buy and sell them like cattle.

Now, people are saying that because babies have not yet been born, they are somehow not human, as though there was some sort of magic that took place upon birth, converting the fetus into a human being. Does this make sense? Does a woman who has a stillbirth or miscarries a wanted child ever say, "I lost my fetus?"

You may accuse me of being against women's rights. This is not true. I do confess, however, to being more interested in the rights of the unborn women and men than in women's rights alone.

Lastly, nobody was ever forced to get pregnant, except in the case of rape, which is a different issue. If men and women want to have sexual options, everyone, men and women alike, must face the consequences of their actions. There is no such thing as a free ride.

Fishbone and the cycle slut from hell

By Tarry Carapezza

"Fishbone, the future of rock and roll." What in the heck does that mean? It's a quote from Scott Ian of Anthrax. Fishbone is a new band that is guaranteed to become a major hit. Their latest album, "Truth and Soul", is an impressive showing from these newcomers to the rock scene.

In addition to Fishbone there are several other bands that are really going to be super hot in the years to come. Jane's addiction (punk metal from L.A.), Bloodgood, Living Colour (funk metal from New York), Jeff Healy (a blind jazz guitarist), and even an EP of Sting in Spanish are all growing in popularity.

Two groups that I really like, and hope become popular, are Barren Cross and The Cycle Sluts From Hell. Barren Cross is a religious heavy metal band, who I believe blows away other religious bands (like Stryper). Their album, "Atomic Arena" on Enigma records proves that these four guys can rock. On the flip side, The Cycle Sluts From Hell are an all-girl trio who premiered at The Ramones' 15th anniversary party in New York. These girls have a no-holds barred sound that is definitely punk. They don't yet have an album, but when they do, watch out!

Probing, revealing survey results are in!

Here are the results of our survey. We polled 25% of the students at Carmel High to get these figures. Note that if we add up the percentages of all the students who have tried smoking, smoke infrequently, smoke weekends, and smoke often, we get a total of 66% of the students who have experienced smoking.

If we do the same for drinking, we find a staggering 94% of the student population has experienced drinking. That is a lot of students.

As for drugs, an unfortunate 61% of us have experienced them in some form. If we look at the last graph, we see that the majority of those who have experimented with drugs use marijuana. Look for more survey results in the next issue!

By Darin Nicholson and Anthony Boyd

Introduction

Ever wondered how you fit into the universe? When you consider the vastness of this universe, does the concept of infinity strike you as realistic? If you've answered yes to either, and many of us have, you may take a liking to this theory.

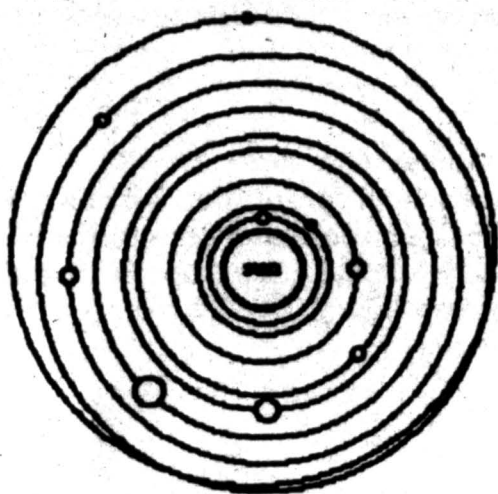

Our concept is based on these three assumptions:

- You aren't what you think you are.
- You have been misled into believing that the universe is as simple as it seems.
- Our theory must allow for all other presently accepted explanations of the universe, including creationism and evolutionism.

Concept

During one of our conversations, we realized that the both of us had thought up the exact same theory independent of each other. Since that time, we've learned that many others have entertained similar thoughts. We have concluded that this is evidence enough of the validity of our work.

Start with the solar system. Our nine planets revolve around the sun, with Pluto having a more elliptical orbit than the rest, as seen here:

Now suppose we were to think of our solar system as tiny. Very tiny. If we were to replace the word sun with the word nucleus, and envision the planets as electrons, the picture looks almost exactly the same:

What do we have here? A nine electron fluorine atom. A cluster of these atoms would produce a molecule. What is our galaxy? A cluster of solar systems. Therefore, our galaxy is a molecule.

Taking it one step further, a cluster of molecules is a substance. What is our universe? A cluster of galaxies. Thus, if each galaxy is a molecule, our universe forms a substance.

In summary, the sun is a nucleus and the planet are its electrons. This makes our solar system an atom, the galaxy a molecule, and the universe a (so far unknown) substance.

Incorporating the open/closed universe theory: A closed, finite universe is unchanging. So the substance it makes up must have a regulated size, most likely an inanimate object such as a rock. In the open, infinite universe, continual growth is the normal mode. This type of universe would compose a living object. As it grew, so would that universe.

Implications

We reside on an electron, and are smaller particles forming that electron. This suggests that there are smaller aspects of an electron (us) that scientists have yet to prove the existence of.

Also, our universe is expanding, as has been proved by the stellar red shift. It is safe to say, then, that we are an open universe. Therefore, we compose some type of living object, which, for ease of comparison we will assume is a child. And not only do we compose that child, but the child composes something even bigger, which composes something even bigger than that. Reversely, we then are made up of billions of solar systems, each one an atom. There are people inside us. And people inside them. It is infinite, in both directions.

Conclusion

In conclusion, this theory allows for all other major opinions to exist. For example, something must have started this huge chain in the first place, so it could be said that God created it. At the same time, our existence was touched off by the birth of a living creature, which would explain all the evolutionary theories that say we came into existence and "grew".

Caley Inlow

By Matt Snowden

"Art is a medium to express oneself universally, one that everyone understands. It is unlimited." Those are the words of Caley Inlow, a Carmel High senior whose art may be seen on local T-shirts, newspapers, and canvas. So you might know Caley a little better, here is a brief interview:

Matt: Caley, how long have you been drawing?

Caley: I have been drawing since I was 2 years old. Both of my parents are artists.

Matt: Why do you draw?

Caley: Good question. Why do I draw? Basically to keep myself sane...keep from jumping off a cliff. Also, I want to starve when I get older.

Matt: Have psychedelic drugs influenced your artwork at all?

Caley: (long pause) To be honest, they have exposed me to a different perception, but that was years ago. Don't get caught up in the world of LSD because it won't take you anywhere.

Matt: How do you feel about commercializing your art, or art for profit?

Caley: I don't like to take money, but sometimes I have to. I like to give my art away, but not to be exploited. If I do it solely for money, I lose track of what it is all about.

Matt: I am sure that many people would like to know whether your art is a talent or a developed skill?

Caley: It is a talent that I keep developing. I always improve and it gives me a sense of satisfaction.

Remember, "Art Saves Lives."

Dirty closets

By Anthony Boyd

THE AIR was so thin it couldn't have been thicker than a piece of cellophane. I flicked on the light switch, watching the room light up as if the light bulb were the end of a huge firefly. The closet loomed in the distance, diamonds flickering off the silvery doorknob, glinting in the glow of the now illuminated bulbs.

Due to the raw energy of the scene before me, I grasped the side of the bed for support, the glossy wood like granite in my white-knuckled fist. Like monkeys screaming as they are tortured for scientific research, I could hear the muffled shouts coming from...the dirty closet.

I breathed deeply, as if I were gasping for air after being held under water, and took a gingerly step forward. The shouts grew louder, beckoning me the same way the legendary siren does to sailors. I reached out my left hand and twisted open the blind, the five o'clock sun running like hot maple syrup across the floor. Enshrouded in golden, dusty particles reflecting the majestic ball of flame to my side, I made for the door.

I grasped the cold, hard, steel knob as if the floor had been pulled out from under me and only it separated me from hell below. I would not let go. My life, it seemed, depended on it.

With the speed of a hibernating sloth, I twisted the knob, heard the click resounding in the echo chambers of my mind, and working against old hinges rusted with time, pulled the door open.

Overcome by darkness, I struck a match, hearing it light as if it were a sparkler on the fourth of July. Spiderwebs burned away, going up in flames like a burst from a flamethrower.

I checked the closet only long enough to see some secrets lying in the corner like a bum beside a garbage can. I hadn't the time to find the source of the screaming, for as I peered deeper, a secret sat up and blew out the match...

PEACE

By Somebody

Peace has a multitude of meanings. Peace is happiness. Peace is tranquility. Peace is the sweetness of chocolate. Peace is the coziness of reading a good book on a rainy, cold evening, in one's warm, comfortable house. Peace is the opposite of war. If peace were to be a color, the color would be silver since silver is such a tranquil, lovely color. Peace, whatever description describes it best, is beautiful.

Skeater & Bubbles

Dear Skeater & Bubbles:

I am 14 years old and a freshman at CHS. When I go out on the weekends I am always drinking. Is that right or wrong?

Signed,
Confused

Dear Skeater & Bubbles:

I am 16 years old and I am dating this guy. I think he is cheating on me. What do I do? From,
Devoted to my man

Dear Confused:

You are a minor and it is illegal for you to use this substance. I myself can't tell you what to do, but if you are being pressured into it, it is definitely wrong. You are the only one who can decide whether it is right or wrong.

Dear Devoted:

You should directly approach your boyfriend with your suspicions. If they are true, you should decide whether or not your feelings for him are still as strong as before. If your feelings have changed, find someone new...someone you can trust.

Contemporary writer immerses herself in 18th century

By ANNE PAPINEAU

To THE accomplishments of Ciji Ware add novelist, for this very modern woman has harnessed the power of her word processor to recreate the era of the quill pen.

Ware's Island of the Swans, which she describes as "biographical fiction," was published in March by Bantam Books. It is based on the life of Jane Maxwell, the Duchess of Gordon, an 18th century Scottish woman who was a patroness of Robert Burns—a political and social leader whose colorful life has been forgotten by time.

Just as the duchess was an achieving woman of her era, her biographer is a much-accomplished individual.

ARTS & LEISURE

"I just started my 13th year with KABC. I began here when my son was only 4," explains the author.

Ware is an Emmy Award-winning broadcaster and journalist based in Los Angeles. Her childhood, however, was spent in Carmel. She graduated from Sunset School in 1956 and from Carmel High in 1960.

Her grandfather, Will Ware, who died at 94, could be described as a "Carmel character." He credited twice daily walks to the Carmel Post Office and a pinch of Old Crow whiskey as the secret of his longevity.

Her late father, Harlan Ware, was a novelist, screenwriter and one of Carmel's Hollywood refugees. His Come Fill the Cup was translated into a Warner Brothers film starring James Cagney and Gig Young. He was also co-writer of the radio classic, One Man's Family.

Ciji Ware retains Elysian memories of growing up in Carmel-by-the-Sea.

"My father, because he was a writer, worked at home," she recalls. "He used to bring a picnic to school, and he'd invite me and my friends to a picnic lunch at the beach and then return us to school."

"(Artist) Donald Teague and my dad were best friends, and they'd go for beach walks at 4 p.m. every day. My father finished his day's work, then we'd have tea by the fireplace. To this day I love fog."

Ciji's mother, the late Ruth Ware, lived in Carmel until her death in 1973. Among the posts she held were registrar at Robert Louis Stevenson School and executive director of the Carmel Foundation.

Ciji, short for Corlis Jane, describes her school teachers as "wonderful," and remembers that Carmel High history teacher, Mrs. Brey, influenced her in choosing history as her major at Harvard. Ciji graduated from Harvard University in 1964.

Much has happened in her life between her years in Carmel and the publication of Island of the Swans. Ciji has served as moderator, producer and writer of her own weekly public affairs program on KCET-TV. She also lectures extensively and has written for numerous national magazines.

"My dad always told me to make a living as a writer you had to be a jack-of-all-trades. You have to work in every medium. The thing I like the most is writing fiction. I love radio, it's a wonderful medium, but I really love writing novels."

As health and lifestyle commentator for radio station KABC, she broadcasts daily from her Beverly Hills home.

"I'm very much on the cutting edge in terms of health and pesticide issues," she explains. During her broadcasts Ware might comment on the effects of Alar in apple juice, or the scientific differences between "good" and "bad" cholesterol.

For five years, Ware added to her already busy schedule by researching the life and times of the Duchess of Gordon. The book grew out of Ware's interest in genealogy.

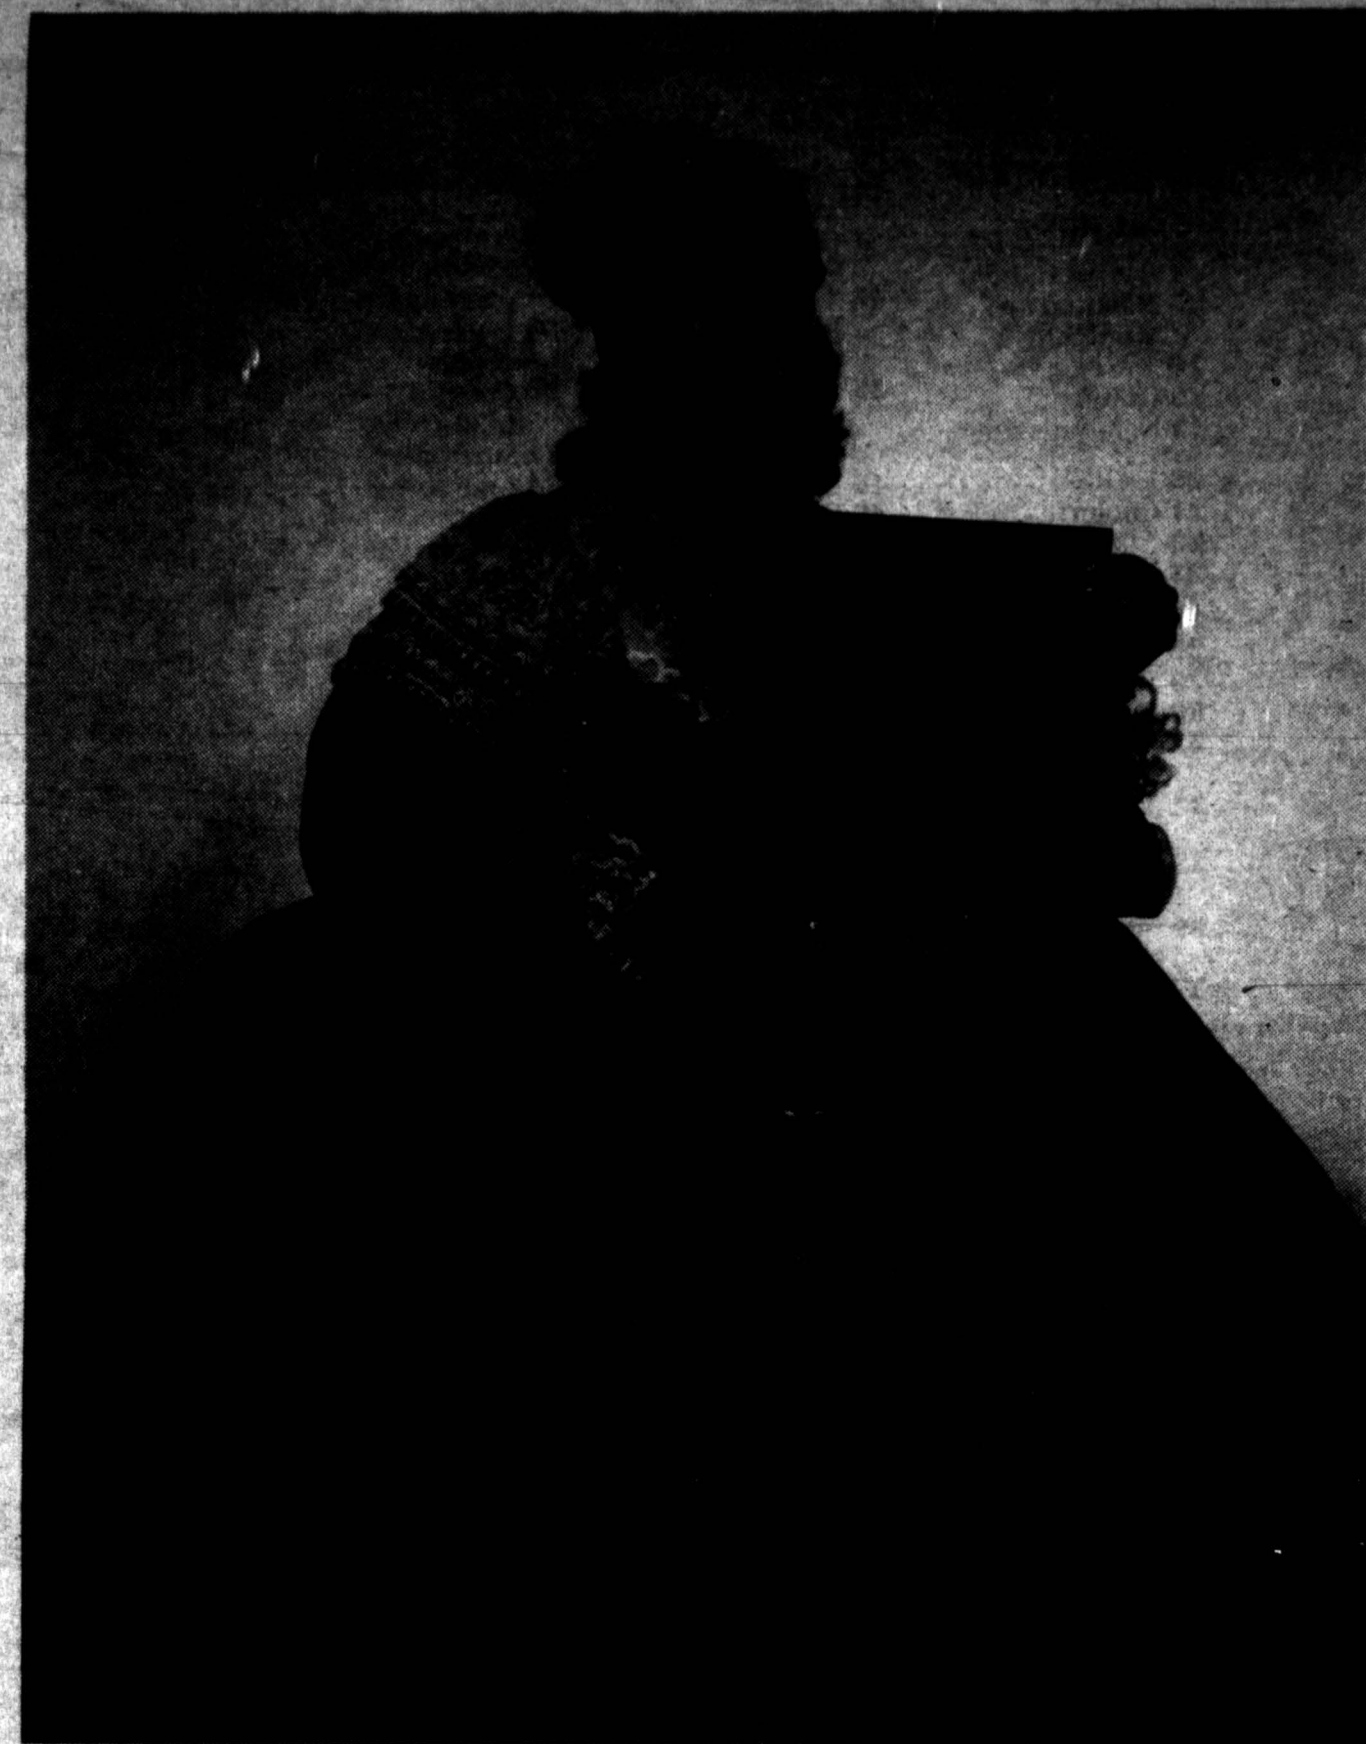

"I'm Scottish-American, and on my mother's side I started tracking down the McCulloughs. I began to hear of the match-making duchess, who married three of her daughters to dukes and she married a duke."

The matchmaking duchess was the lively Duchess of Gordon.

"I could not believe she had not been the subject of a full-length biography, and I realized her life read like a novel. I decided to reclaim Jane from obscurity," the author recalls.

While her novel boasts a florid cover like most romance novels, and is admittedly tinged with romantic intrigue, Ware steeped her book in solidly researched details. She made four trips to Scotland and innumerable visits to the Huntington Library and Art Gallery in San Marino.

"The Huntington is one of the great repositories for 17th and 18th century history

AN EMMY-award winning journalist of the 20th century, former Carmel resident Ciji Ware has immersed herself in the 18th century lifestyle of the Duchess of Gordon in preparation for her first novel, Island of the Swans. Ware will autograph copies of her book Saturday, March 8 at the Thunderbird in Carmel.

and literature," she says. "If you can't be in Scotland, the next best place is San Marino. I found everything there from 18th century travel guides to diaries, maps of Edinburgh in 1760 showing who lives in what building. I found inventories of the duchess's homes, so I know she lived with tartan drapes and green china—amazing things."

Ciji did not devote her research solely to the printed page. She also donned the corsets, hoops and stays of 18th century gowns to experience the confinement of clothing of that era. She slept in the bedroom of the fourth Duchess of Gordon in the Scottish Highlands. She learned to ride side-saddle

JAZZ TIDES

By John Detro

No place to hide

DUO JAZZ demands the best of its participants—chops, tune selection, staying power, trust, immersion in the occasion's spirit. Think now of the two-person session recorded by Art Pepper and George Cables. Such tough and pretty stuff. No place to hide.

Pianist Mark Levine and venerable drummer Smiley Winters did an album (1985) on the independent Cameo label. Its no-frills dignity brings true pleasure. The men went to the edge with some wondrous composers—Tadd Dameron, Billy Strayhorn, Benny Golson, Gigi Gryce—and found that sound of serious play. Just as though bare artistry were the norm.

Singer Scotty Wright must feel strong these days. When given a choice, he went for the duo situation. His partner Thursday night (4/6) will be Kenny Stahl on jazz flutes. Site: Jimmy's American Place in Carmel Rancho Center. Cover charge is $3 at the door.

Scotty came up here and studied music at Monterey Peninsula College. He lives and works gigs in the San Francisco Bay Area. His first album drew raves from such seasoned jazz writers as Royal Stokes and Hugh Wyatt.

"I offered," says Kenny, "to get the band together. But Scotty thought the duo challenge would be more fun. So I'll do what I do and he'll double on keyboard and voice."

Kenny's group—pianist Bob Phillips, drummer Andy Weis, Terry Miller with his electric bass—needn't feel slighted. The unit has an active April. Like so:

—Monterey Bay Club (4/12). Bobby also hosts jam sessions there on Sunday evenings.

—Another Thursday night gig (4/20)...one at Carmel Art Association. They'll open the third annual series of free jazz events in the downtown galleries.

—Mission Ranch Barn on a Friday night (4/28). The facility's husband/wife team of Steve and Marilyn Nergord has much experience with concert production and a real taste for jazz.

—Saturday afternoon benefit (4/29) at Pacific Grove Art Center. Helping out PGAC and KAZU Public Radio.

—Tuesday nights at Jimmy's. These too offer jam session settings. Good players show up.

—Kenny and Bob work through Jazz Brunch on Sundays (12:30-2:30) at Silver Jones Restaurant in The Barnyard. That duo dare.

GEORGE SHEARING brings wit, style and seemingly limitless technique to the jazz pianist's art. And the man swings.

All this will be observable on April 15 when he appears as featured guest artist with Monterey County Symphony. That Saturday night Pops Concert will occur within the Salinas facility called Sherwood Hall. Start time of eight o'clock.

Check with Center Stage Ticketing (649-5561) to nail down advance reservations. A Symphony spokeswoman says some few ducats will be available at the door.

Symphony conductor Clark Suttle announces a rich program. Shearing-with-orchestra will interpret compositions by Stephen Sondheim, Anthony Newley, Robert Farnon, others.

There'll also be an unaccompanied duo segment. George's partner for this venture: superb jazz bassist Neil Swainson.

On Thursday afternoon (4/6) Johnny Adams of KRML Jazz Radio will have a telephone interview with George Shearing. Their chat's scheduled between 4:30-5 p.m. In that same time slot a week later (4/13), Johnny will talk with Maestro Suttle about the upcoming concert.

MONTEREY PENINSULA Chamber of Commerce has a Military Affairs Committee. That fact fits this column's concerns because the unit sponsors a free jazz concert by top-drawer players.

Jazz Ambassadors—official touring jazz ensemble of the United States Army—will play the gig at Naval Postgraduate School's King Hall. Kicks off at 7:30 Tuesday evening (4/11).

Chamber contact Charlene Aldinger says the aggregation "creates a unique sound through original compositions as well as creative arrangements of traditional and modern big band music. Jazz Ambassadors was born in 1969; audiences all over the nation have responded to performances with standing ovations."

You can get no-cost tickets by sending a self-addressed stamped envelope to Center Stage at PO Box 55—Monterey—93940. Limit of four ducats per request. Or simply drop by 467 Alvarado in downtown Monterey.

KUUMBWA JAZZ Center in Santa Cruz presents the Cedar Walton Trio on Monday night (4/10). The brilliant pianist and composer will be working with drummer Billy Higgins and David Williams on bass. It's $12 per with an eight o'clock kick—call Center Stage for advance treatment.

Meanwhile, Kuumbwa Director Tim Jackson tells why musicians pay $1 apiece when they sit in on the weekly Tuesday night jams over there. The policy was challenged via a letter to Jazz Tides by local trumpeter Glen Gross.

Glen arrived recently from the New Mexico scene. He wrote: "Although I did pay the fee and play a set, I felt cheated."

Tim: "Kuumbwa's a non-profit. We're certainly not fat cats licking up cream. Pianist Steve Czarnecki organizes the jams as a volunteer. The fee assures that we can pay something to a quality bass player and drummer. Sometimes other bassists and drummers show up; sometimes they don't; we feel the stability's important. Kuumbwa absorbs the weekly loss from these sessions."

Lympany shares musical gifts

ONE OF BRITAIN'S best kept musical secrets and finest treasures was revealed last Sunday afternoon in Sunset Theater when Moura Lympany, a youthful pianist in her early 70s, was heard in recital under the auspices of the Keyboard Artist Series. She proved most conclusively that age does not necessarily have to stale or wither one's abilities, particularly when they are of the magnificence that she displayed for an obviously delighted audience.

Next year Ms. Lympany will celebrate the 60th anniversary of her concert career and I sincerely regret that I missed most of it. Her recital was a rare and momentous event. Its dimensions were truly monumental, if one can say that of a performer who also commands a delicacy and softness of sound that is breathtakingly effective. This is only one facet of a pianistic overlordship which in my opinion is of world class quality.

The artist chose a daunting, technically brilliant program of romantic and impressionistic music. The "Fantasia in C Major" op. 17 by Schumann opened the program. It is a large and intensely emotive work. Playing with great virtuosity while maintaining a singing legato, Ms. Lympany displayed unmistakable interpretive maturity and sensitive elegance. Her flexibility in expressing the differing moods of the music as they unfolded was impressive and the narrative elements of the music were eloquently traced.

Three short works by Ravel were next. "Ondine" and "Jeux d'eau" are masterpieces of impressionistic watercolor compositions. Both shimmered under the artist's exquisite control of pianistic ripples, while the "Toccata" from "Le Tombeau de Couperin" was gemlike and clear, even as it thoroughly highlighted the pianist's technical equipment.

After the intermission, watercolors by Debussy were offered. "Reflets dans l'eau" featured featherlike pianissimi as Ms. Lympany brought out the program of the title. "Poissons d'or" was similarly illuminating and "L'Isle Joyeuse" was also painted in dynamically colorful sound hazes.

The "Sonata No. 2 in B flat Minor" op. 36 by Rachmaninoff concluded the program. Dating from the time of his third and fourth piano concertos, it has a massive character and sometimes seems to call for some orchestral exchanges with the pianist. It is an exercise in dynamic control and contrast as well as a demonstration of thundering drama. Ms. Lympany met the bravura demands with superior ease and facility of execution, overlaid with consummate taste and artistry. Seemingly totally at ease with what she was doing, she brought conviction and fervor to her playing.

In response to the fervor of the audience, the artist, who has a gracious stage presence, played two Waltzes and two Etudes by Chopin as encores.

Derek Anthony displays versatility

BASS DEREK ANTHONY returned to Sunset Theater on Saturday, April 1, to fulfill his concert obligation as winner of last year's competition sponsored by the Carmel Music Society. It was no April Fool's joke — it was a beautiful concert.

It was also a demanding concert, as Anthony demonstrated his versatility in a wide variety of composers.

His opening group was by Handel, two Italian arias and a throw-away piece, "O ruddier than the cherry." While one might have wished for a good deal more ornamentation, the melismatic passages were clean and clear.

A group of German lieder followed, by Schumann and Brahms, of which "Verrat" of Brahms was particularly notable. Anthony really opened up in this tragic description of infidelity and sang with intensity and passion. This group closed with a little bit of nothing, "Still wie die Nacht," evidently by Karl Bohm (d. 1920), his only claim to fame.

The first half of the program closed with a drinking song, "Five Times One Hundred Thousand Little Devils," by Gustav Hoffman (d. 1900), apparently his only claim to fame, but a very amusing one. Anthony sang it with obvious pleasure, which conveyed itself to the audience.

After intermission, rather than allowing us to relax, Anthony sang two very intense groups four songs from Don Quichotte by Ibert and Songs and Dances of Death by Mussorgsky. It was a tall order for all of us, but he carried it off well. He captured the peculiar blend of idealism and cynicism that characterize the French/Spanish works, as well as the relentless sorrow of the Russian pieces.

Although I am inclined to deplore encores, Leporello's amusing aria from Don Giovanni, "Madamina..." was a welcome relief after all that profundity. Anthony was obviously very comfortable here — he probably enjoyed the respite from all that profundity also.

Anthony's diction was excellent throughout (I think — I have to assume it for the Russian) and his intonation was good. The voice showed some strain toward the end of the program, especially in the upper register, but it would be quite acceptable to tire in such a program. Furthermore, he sang with taste and intelligence. If he continues with the Baroque repertoire, it would be desirable for him to study further that style with its unique demands. Except in the comic numbers, where he appeared very relaxed, he was a bit stiff on stage. Eventually, perhaps, he will carry that relaxation over into the more serious works.

Brent McMunn was the pianist, and he was a worthy partner. He was always solid, always expressive, and poetic when required throughout a very demanding program.

and jump fences on a horse. She rowed over to the "Island of the Swans" on Loch-an-Eilean where the castle of the Wolf of Badenoch now towers in the ruins above the water.

"I think I really found my century," Ciji muses. She likens her novel to the works of biographical fiction written by Daphne Du Maurier, or Margaret Mitchell's Gone with the Wind — books that reflect extensive study of the times of their heroines.

"I don't like to call it a romance novel, because I think that genre has been polluted by many bad books called 'bodice rippers.' Mine is a love story, but it is also about the end of Scotland as a separate nation, and disenfranchised people. It reminds me of Gone with the Wind, as it shows the end of an era."

Ciji recalls that almost halfway into writing Island of the Swans, she battled a bout of writer's block.

She found inspiration to continue in a book written by Professor Gerda Lerner, The Majority Finds Its Past: Placing Women in History.

"She says that half of human history has yet to be written because the lives of women haven't been chronicled. And the half that has been written is fairly inaccurate," the author explains.

She will visit Carmel this weekend, and will autograph copies of her book from 12:30 to 2:30 p.m. Saturday, April 8 in the Thunderbird Bookshop in the Barnyard, Carmel.

"I'm going to give a copy to Harrison Memorial Library," Ciji says. "All my father's books are there. I did many a term paper at Harrison Memorial. I have a great fondness for librarians. They've been very kind to me all over the world."

Down an Alley Filled with Cats

The GroveMont Theater will stage the Central Coast premiere of a comedy/mystery by Warwick Moss, Down an Alley Filled with Cats. Winner of the 1983 Best Australian Play award, the production opens Saturday, April 8 at the GroveMont Theater Arts Center, located at 320 Hoffman (at Lighthouse) in New Monterey.

Dan Gotch directs Down an Alley Filled with Cats. The play showcases a battle of wills between two adversaries, the owner of the bookshop where the play takes place, and an uncultured opportunist. The two engage in a cat and mouse search for clues leading to a valuable artifact.

The two are played by Sid Cato and John Rousseau.

Discount previews will be staged at 8 p.m. Thursday and Friday, April 6-7. A gala opening is planned Saturday, April 8, which will feature a post-show wine and refreshment reception with the performers.

Down an Alley Filled with Cats will continue its run at 8 p.m. Thursdays through Saturdays, April 13 through May 6. One Sunday matinee has been set for 2 p.m. Sunday, April 30.

Tickets are $8.50 general and $7 for students, seniors and the military on Thursdays and Sundays. Ticket prices on Fridays and Saturdays are $9.50 general and $8 for students, seniors and military. Advance tickets may be purchased through Center Stage Ticketing at 649-5561. For reservations, call the GroveMont Theater at 649-6852.

For a' That and a' That

Taelen Thomas appears in a one-man tribute to Scottish poet Robert Burns. For a' That and a' That is co-produced by The Poetic Drama Institute and The GroveMont Theater and opens Tuesday, April 11 at GroveMont.

Thomas, GroveMont's poet-in-residence, performs in the ancient tradition of oral recitation. Robert Burns (1759-1796) was a poor Scottish farmer who rose to fame and notoriety in the late 1780s through his poetry and song lyrics. His travels allowed him to collect thousands of songs and stories from the Scottish oral tradition which otherwise might have been lost, and inspired many of his compositions, including Auld Lang Syne and Tam O'Shanter.

Curtain is at 8 p.m. Tuesdays, April 11, 18 and 25. The theater is at 320 Hoffman (at Lighthouse) in New Monterey. Tickets are $7 general, $5 for students and senior citizens. A $1 discount is given to GroveMont season ticket holders and members of the Scottish Society of Monterey.

For reservations, call 649-6852 or 649-5561.

staged by The Frohman Academy for Musical Theatre Education. The production continues its run at the New Wharf Theatre in Monterey.

Gina Welch-Hagen directs Same Time, Next Year, a play that tells of two persons who are married to others, but keep a date for a liaison once each year. LaVonne Rae Andrews and Leonard O'Neill bring these characters to life.

Same Time, Next Year will be presented at 8 p.m. Fridays through Sundays until May 7. Admission is $10 for adults and $5 for children.

The New Wharf Theatre is located near the end of Fisherman's Wharf No. 1 in Monterey. Advance tickets may be ordered by calling 649-2332 or 649-5561.

Come Back, Little Sheba

The intimate theater at Carmel's Cherry Foundation provides the setting for a story of lost youth, shattered illusions and the indomitable human spirit. The Monterey Peninsula College Drama Department presents playwright William Inge's first Broadway success, Come Back Little Sheba.

Conrad Selvig directs this production. The cast features Ann Mattingly as Lola and Len Parry as her husband, Doc. Also appearing are Julie Ann Hughett, Brian T. Mahoney, Nancy Lee Methenitis, Brandon M. Palmberg, Henry Guevarra, Paul O'Donovan, Jerry Gill and Don Bieber.

Curtain is at 8 p.m. Thursdays through Saturdays through April 15. A Sunday matinee is set 2 p.m. on April 9. Admission is $8 general and $6 for students and senior citizens. For tickets, call Center Stage Ticketing, 649-5561, or the Carl Cherry Foundation, 624-7491. The theater is on Guadalupe and Fourth in Carmel.

Right You Are (If You Think You Are)

Luigi Pirandello's sly look at gossip in a small Italian town, Right You Are (If You Think You Are) explores what a rising tide of inquisitiveness does to the objects of the town's nosiness. The Staff Players Repertory Company will present final performances of this classic at the Indoor Forest Theater in Carmel.

Pirandello was years ahead of his contemporaries in his understanding of the observer's point of view. The notion of Total Objectivity seemed a myth to him. Right You Are... carries the audience with the actors into a close look at how much we really know about one another.

A cast of officials, relatives, wives, neighbors and onlookers includes Norman Stottmeister, Mitchell Davis, Nancy Kocher, Mark Heckman, Suzanne Crain, Victoria Johnson, Mary Schmidt, Ivan Flansburg, Ray Wiberg, Jennifer Wilcox, Pamela Murphy, Brian Huntington, Christina Perez and Rachel McDonald.

Curtain is at 8 p.m. Thursday, Friday and Saturday, April 6-8.

Tickets are $9 general and $7 for students, senior citizens and the military. The Indoor Forest Theater is on Mountain View at Santa Rita in Carmel-by-the-Sea. For information or reservations, call 624-1531.

Repairs to close trail at Big Sur

Los Padres National Forest District Ranger David Harmer has announced that the Forest Service station at Big Sur and the adjacent Pine Ridge trailhead will be closed effective April 10, to facilitate construction of a multi-agency administration complex. The closure is expected to last about two years.

During the closure, maps and information may be obtained at Pfeiffer Big Sur State park, 667-2423.

Once you get past the display cases full of flaky croissants, fresh-baked breads and sinful French pastries and sit down for what you might expect is a menu laden with rich cream sauces and form-filling fried foods, you're handed a special menu along with the regular one.

Chicken Piccata, Fettucini and Coq Au Vin may not sound like items you'd find on a low-calorie menu, but that's exactly what Fifi's is doing, offering a varied low-cal, low-fat, low-sodium and low-cholesterol menu without sacrificing flavor.

"This is not diet food," says an avid supporter of owner Michele Tardivet's new menu. "It's just an intelligent way of eating. It's fresh and it's good."

Tardivet, working from a menu designed by Cordon Bleu-trained chef Valerie Leonard, takes the freshest seafood and chicken, marries it with herbs and spices instead of salt, adds fresh seasonal vegetables, and either bakes, broils or poaches the entrees. What you end up with is an entree that not only tastes good, but is good for you: Chicken Piccata in white wine with lemon and capers, for example, weighs in at a mere 312 calories, 3.3 grams of fat and 75 milligrams of cholesterol. And for only $8.50.

Opting for a lighter, healthier and more affordable menu, Pierre has decided a new name was in order too. Thus was born Fish & Basil, which will soon make its debut in the same location. Pierre, of course, will be on hand as always to lend his charm and expertise to the "new" restaurant. As they say on the Tonight Show, more to come.

WHAT STARTED out as a small and classy culinary event celebrating German and American chefs and winemakers a couple of years ago has now turned into a full-blown six-day culinary Event.

Co-sponsored by Lufthansa German Airlines, the event includes a variety of gourmet lunches and multi-course dinners, cooking classes with the experts, visits to wineries and specialty produce farms and a tour to Big Sur for a gourmet picnic lunch.

The Masters starts off with a gala opening night extravaganza Tuesday, April 11 featuring the handiwork of eight international chefs, including The Highlands Inn's new star, executive chef Brian Whitmer, and 20 wineries, from our own La Reina, Durney and Talbott to industry heavyweights such as Sterling and Mirassou.

BACH

CARMEL BACH FESTIVAL

By MAESTRO SANDOR SALGO
Music Director and Conductor

THERE ARE MANY factors which the Musical Director should keep in mind; here are some of them. Since we are a Bach Festival, one of the more important aspects naturally concerns his music. We have performed about fifty of the cantatas (some of them either significant or just because we love them), which has been given repeated performances. There are about 250 extant cantatas, so it is imperative that we present some new ones each year. In 1989 it is numbers 33 and 34, which have not been performed before, and also there is a revival of No. 21.

For quite a few years now we have traced the tremendous influence which J.S. Bach has exerted on the 18th, 19th and 20th-century composers. Of course Mozart was one of these and we feel that Bach and Mozart make an unbeatable combination. Beethoven, Mendelssohn, Stravinsky and Alan Berg were among those who looked to Bach for guidance and the Festival benefitted from their spiritual relationship to the great Cantor of Leipzig. This year emphasis is given to Johannes Brahms, who not only felt close to the style of Bach but was one of the founders of the Bach Society. Therefore, this composer will appear on several programs.

Our present-day vocal and instrumental artists are usually trained in the literature of the 19th century. There are not many great Bach singers today, so if such an artist suddenly is free to come to the Festival of course we are overjoyed and tailor the program somewhat accordingly to fit.

There are always some compositions which the Music Director keeps at the back of his mind, to bring out when the opportunity arises. The year there are several pieces which finally will be performed, among them Mozart's Solemn Vespers (a revival after many years), some baroque dances performed by Catherine Turocy (director of the New York Baroque Dance Company), and a whole program saluting 17th century France which features some rare compositions.

Program-making is frustrating, exasperating, exhilarating, and altogether a marvellous experience — each year is new and exciting. We are looking forward to the Festival with great anticipation.

(This monthly column serves to highlight year-round the efforts of the Carmel Bach Festival. It is edited by Carmel Bach Festival staff members and volunteers. The 52nd annual festival will take place July 17 through Aug. 6.)

Female archetypes in fairy tales discussed

A look at "The Mother—Archetypal Image in Fairy Tales," is in store for workshop participants at 7 p.m. on Friday, April 7 at All Saints' Church, Ninth and Dolores, Carmel.

Discussion will be based on the book of that title, written by Jungian analyst Sibylle Birkhauser-Oeri, wife of the artist Peter Birkhauser, and containing a foreword by Marie-Louise von Franz.

From the announcement issued by the Monterey Peninsula Friends of C.G. Jung, sponsors of the workshop, "This extraordinary book illuminates the pervasive influence of the mother complex with particular reference to mother figures in well-known fairy tales, including Snow White, Sleeping Beauty, Rapunzel, Hansel and Gretel."

Both extremes of the archetype are examined, as reflected in the book's chapter titles: The Terrible Mother, The Jealous Stepmother, The Imprisoning Sorceress, The Life-Giving Nature Mother, The Self-Renewing Mother, The Great Mother in Our Time.

Discussion and experiential activities will serve to give participants ways to practical applications of the author's insights to their own lives.

For further details, call or write 649-8809; 853 Pacific St., Monterey.

International folk dances presented by Aman ensemble

ANCIENT CODES of chivalry are reflected in the dances of Soviet Georgia. The women seem to float as they dance, and the men often dance on the knuckles of their toes.

THE AMAN International Folk Ensemble will appear at Sunset Theater at 8 p.m. on Friday, April 7.

For the past 20 years Aman has entertained audiences with its richly costumed productions of authentic folk dance and music. A repertoire that began with Middle Eastern and Balkan folklore has gradually expanded to include a variety of dances from North Africa, Europe, Asia and—in recent years—increasingly from the Americas. With dances as well known as the Scottish Broadsword and as exotic as the masked bird-dances of the Kwakiutl Indians, Aman raises the curtain on a world of enchantment.

Aman was a featured performing group in both the 1984 Olympic Arts Festival and the opening ceremonies of the Olympic Games. The group has also been the subject of an Emmy award-winning special on public television and has appeared on network TV and in feature films.

Reserved tickets are available at Sunset Center for $12.50 and $10. For further information, call the Director's Office at Sunset Center, 624-3996. The theater is on San Carlos Street at Ninth Avenue.

Many media represented in new PG Art Center exhibits

LOCAL ART audiences will have the opportunity to encounter works by artists never before exhibited on the Monterey Peninsula at the new shows opening at the Pacific Grove Art Center. An opening reception is set 7 to 9 p.m. Friday, April 7 at the center, located at 568 Lighthouse Ave. in Pacific Grove. Admission is free.

In this exhibition, the Pacific Grove Art

Center introduces photographers David Muskin and Carol Flax, sculptors represented by Fine Arts in Metal Foundry, painters Michael Pavlov and Patricia Reed, and Vaclav Matejcek, who lives in Czechoslovakia.

David Muskin's black and white photographs fall into three categories: journalistic, staged imagery and the moment with an emphasis on comparisons. Carol Flax uses original photographs, (including snapshots, color, and black and white) and manipulates them using computer graphics. Her finished images are ink jet prints on paper.

The FAIM group sculpture shown in the David Henry Gill Gallery is a diverse exploration of aesthetic subject matter in which 18 Bay Area artists cover the sculptural gambit from representational to non-objective. The collection is a variety of mixed media: bronze, steel, stone, glass and wood. Owner Alan Osborne is the guest curator.

Monterey painter Michael Pavlov will show current canvases with the sculptors. Pavlov's compositions incorporate interior and exterior elements relying on the devices of light and shadow with attention to a painterly surfaces.

Czechoslovakian artist Vaclav Matejcek's work will be shown for the first time in the United States, through the efforts of sympathetic friends. He has shown throughout Europe. His work in the oil and print mediums at the Hall Galleries has been compared to Marc Chagall's work. They are spiritual evoking subconscious responses.

Patricia Reed's colorful paintings in the Elmarie H. Dyke Gallery are focused on food, they are both scrumptiously surrealistic and flavored with humor.

The exhibits will continue through May 12. For additional information, call 375-2208.

Walkers can also join Big Sur Marathon

A seven-mile non-competitive walking event will be held in conjunction with the fourth presentation of the Big Sur International Marathon, set April 23, according to marathon chairman Bill Burleigh.

Burleigh, in conjunction with walk director Ed Klose, made the announcement following final approval by Cal Trans.

"We're extremely excited to be able to offer this opportunity to walkers," Burleigh said. "The course covers some of the most breathtaking terrain in Monterey County."

Walkers will be bussed from the Crossroads shopping center, Carmel to the Little Sur Bridge in Big Sur. Once the marathon is underway walkers will start their seven mile jaunt over Hurricane Point, Bixby Bridge, and Rocky Point, finishing at Garrapata Bridge. The course will remain open until 11 a.m., a 19 minute per mile pace.

Entry fee is $25 which includes a t-shirt, bus transportation to the start and from the finish, refreshments, entertainment and an official race bib number. Children 10 to 16 may enter for $15. The field is limited to 500 walkers.

For walk applications or further information contact the Big Sur International Marathon office, P.O. Box 222620, Carmel, CA 93922 or call 625-6226.

THEATER REVIEW

By Mac McDonald

'Same Time, Next Year,' your Monterey souvenir

THE NEW Wharf Theater's production of Same Time, Next Year is the perfect souvenir to take home with you from Fisherman's Wharf.

It's bright and appealing, provides a few hours of amusement and is forgotten a day or so after you get home.

It's also a great production for the budget-conscious theater outfit: it only takes two actors, one basic set and a handful of costume and makeup changes. Toss in a few topical references, a punchline here and there, a tearful scene or two and you have the makings of a light romantic comedy that doesn't tax the mind ... nor touch the soul.

The setting is a quaint guest cottage at a country inn in Northern California, where in February 1951 George and Doris — both married, but not to each other — have an affair after a chance encounter in a local restaurant. Doris, more concerned about the immediate affairs of heart, is basking in the afterglow of the affair, while George, a button-down accountant type, is fretting because he feels guilty.

But this is no ordinary one-night stand. The seemingly mismatched couple meet every year at the same time in the same cottage to continue their affair. The Bernard Slade play, which had a long run on Broadway and was made into a successful film in 1978 starring Ellen Burstyn and Alan Alda, takes place in six scenes in a span of 25 years, each five years later than the previous one, in 1951, 1956, 1961, 1965, 1970 and 1975. This allows the characters to react and change with the times, affecting different attitudes, manners and fashions as the years roll by, from the carefree '50s, the turbulent '60s to the materialistic '70s (remember the "Me Decade"?).

It also gives the play a somewhat dated quality, as if you're watching one of those forgettable sit-coms from the '70s, a Bridget Loves Bernie played out over 25 years. The fault lies not with the actors, but with the script.

The actors, local theater veteran La Vonne Rae Andrews plays Doris and Leonard O'Neill George, do an excellent job with the material, pulling off a couple of very funny scenes quite adroitly and keeping the play's one truly heart-rending scene touching by not overplaying the pain and anger.

Andrews has the more difficult task because her character goes through a series of drastic changes, from young housewife to college student, overage hippie, successful businesswoman and finally to settled-in socialite. She carries off the portrayal with conviction and heart.

O'Neill's character, on the other hand, remains predictably uptight and buttoned-down over the years, except in the final scenes in which George goes through analysis and becomes "laid-back" with the help of encounter groups and other consciousness-raising techniques popular in the '70s. O'Neill gives George a kind a goofy, puppy dog amiability even during his ramrod straight, conservative years as a Goldwater Republican. O'Neill brings a great sense of comic timing to the role, playing well off Andrews' more flamboyant character.

The script is leavened with time-worn comic interplay and topical asides (passing references to Catcher in the Rye, Vietnam, long hair, etc.), but not in enough detail or relevance to give us a real sense of the period. The program is more detailed and forthcoming in setting the stage for the next scene ("Floyd Patterson hits championship while long distance calls hit $1. Martin Luther King marches in Selma. Haight Ashbury beckons," one entry reads). A little music or radio or television newscasts from the appropriate time between scenes would have helped set the mood and atmosphere of the times.

Instead what director Gina Welch-Hagen has opted to do is have stage manager Howard Hinckley shuffle around the stage picking up props and replacing them with ones from the upcoming scene while a maid makes the bed, when needed. The first couple of times it was clever, the last few times it seemed overlong and had worn out its welcome. Otherwise Welch-Hagen has done a creditable job with the material at hand. Carey Crockett contributed with an appropriately quaint and comfortable set design.

Same Time, Next Year is not a challenging play by any

ALTHOUGH MARRIED to others, LaVonne Rae Andrews and Leonard O'Neill meet annually over a period of years for means and has not held up that well over the years, especially when compared (unavoidably), with the charismatic performances of Alda and Burstyn (who was nominated for an Academy Award for her performance), in the 1978 film. But it is a light, amusing, romantic comedy featuring an attractive cast. It's one of the better souvenirs you can find on Fisherman's Wharf.

A CARMEL TRADITION SINCE 1937

Dick Crispo shares his Central American visions

Original oils, acrylics and ink on paper works by Dick Crispo, inspired by the artist's recent Latin American tour, will be featured in the Beardsley Room of the Carmel Art Association through May 3.

A reception for the artist will take place 6 to 8 p.m. Saturday, April 8.

The show is titled "Latin America Tour and Other Responses." "Finding Your Way in Bolivia" is a painting that addresses the artist's confusion while visiting that country. "Guatemalan Landscape" is blood-stained, adressing the tragedy of that nation's history.

Last summer, Crispo undertook a six-week Latin American tour for the United States Information Service Arts America Program.

Ten percent of all sales from the exhibit will be donated to the Bugay Medical Project in Northern Nicaragua to defray the cost of an ambulance. Crispo also plans to return to Nicaragua and Guatemala with art supplies donated by local artists.

The Carmel Art Association is located on Dolores Street between Fifth and Sixth avenues in Carmel. It is open 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily.

DICK CRISPO, Monterey Peninsula artist and teacher, has documented his recent Latin American tour in a collection of paintings exhibited in the galleries of the Carmel Art Association. The show will open with a reception set 6 to 8 p.m. Saturday, April 8.

Diverse crafts represented at Reminisce in Pacific Grove

OFFERING UNUSUAL American country antiques, Reminisce represents more than 100 craftspeople from throughout the United States, with designs ranging from contemporary to the traditional.

Representatives of Reminisce travel nationwide seeking the most unique antique treasures they can find.

"We select according to an artisan's love of material and process combined with their strong sense of design and individual touch," says Reminisce owner Linda Bassett.

The result: a bevy of out-of-the-ordinary antique furniture such as coffee mills, woodburning stoves, scales and pie safes.

Hoping to soon represent artists from all 50 states, with its 2,000 square feet of retail space, Reminisce is already the largest antique dealer on the peninsula.

"Our emphasis is quality and our goal is to renew the appreciation of craftspeople of the past and present," said Bassett. "We bring you what America has to offer."

Reminisce is located in Grand Central Station at 157 Grand Ave. in Pacific Grove.

Wednesday, April 12 starts out bright and early with an 8 o'clock breakfast at The Highlands' California Market restaurant and it doesn't let up from there. There are at least five separate events planned for each day of The Masters, including daily day-ending gourmet feasts such as "The Romance of Italy" April 12, "A Gourmet Experience from Germany" April 13, "An American Celebration" April 14, and "The Grand Finale" April 15, a six-course international cooperative effort by all hands.

Space doesn't permit me to name all the chefs and restaurants, but Joachim Splichal of Patina in LA, Alain Ducasse from Le Louis XV, Hotel de Paris in Monte Carlo, Siegfried Rockendorf of Rockendorf's Restaurant in Berlin and Jean Claude Fabre from Restaurant Leonce in France, should whet your appetite, so to speak.

Winemakers range from the near (William Durney of Durney Vineyards and Richard Graff of Chalona), to the far (Bernhard Breuer of Weingut Breuer of Germany and Teresa Lungarotti of Lungarotti Wine Estate in Italy).

This Masters is fast becoming one of the gems in the Monterey Peninsula's version of a wine and culinary Grand Slam alongside such events as the Gourmet Gala and the Monterey Wine Festival.

If you'd like to partake in this gourmet extravaganza, call The Highlands Inn at 624-3801 pronto. All events are individually priced.

SIAMESE BAY Restaurant, those purveyors of Angel Wings, Mee Grob and other Thai delicacies, has added a new service to its "menu" — delivery service.

That's right, all you need to do to have that wonderful Stuffed Pineapple Fried Rice delivered to your door is to pick up the phone and let your fingers do the walking. Call them at 373-1550 and talk to Sam to order. More details forthcoming.

ONE OF Carmel's newest jewels lies buried under the city's streets, but don't fret, it's accessible with a simple flight of stairs.

Hamaichi Japanese restaurant is the latest in Carmel's stable of fine Japanese eateries. Located in the former location of the Hacienda Mexican restaurant, across the street from the Carmel Post Office (Fifth and Dolores for those of you who need details), owner Hiro Ichimaru has done a tremendous renovation job in a place that used to be dark and crowded-looking.

He has transformed the place into a clean, bright, classy and comfortable restaurant, complete with the requisite Japanese touches (lanterns, flower arrangements, Japanese folk-pop music on the sound system, etc.), and an extensive menu, from tempura and ten-don to sukiyaki and sashimi. And, he's also added a striking "castle" wall to separate the sushi bar from the sit-down dining area, which includes, instead of booths, intimate tatami rooms built for Western bodies.

In Japan, in most tatami rooms you sit cross-legged at a low table. It's a definite hardship, however, on Westerners with their long legs and lack of experience in this form of sitting for long periods. At Hamaichi, Hiro has cleverly skirted that by building in wells under the table in which Westerners can stretch their legs and still get the feeling they're dining at a ryokan in Kyoto.

The sushi bar is all smooth blond wood and glass, with the smiling face of sushi chef Mitsu at the helm. He'll whip up all the popular favorites from maguro to unagi, and he does take requests if you want to get creative with your sushi (such as sliced green onion with your hamachi — that's a negi-hama for you neophytes).

They're open for lunch and dinner every day. Call them at 625-3931 for more information.

That's it for this week. For comments, questions or critiques of this column write: The Nose, c/o Carmel Pine Cone, PO Box G-1, Carmel CA 93921. And remember...The Nose knows.

Society screens international films

The Monterey Peninsula International Film Series will present a feature from Poland and Wise Blood by John Huston.

On Friday and Saturday, April 7-8, the series will present The Man of Marble, a 1977 release from Poland. Andrzej Wajda directed this film, which takes the form of an investigation into the mysteries, ascent and downfall of a labor hero of the 1950s in Poland. It will be shown in Polish with subtitles.

John Huston's 1980 interpretation of Wise Blood is the Wednesday, April 12 film offering. Flannery O'Connor's novel about maverick Hazel Motes stars Brad Dourif and Ned Beatty.

Both films begin 8:15 p.m. in Morse Auditorium, located at 440 Van Buren St., Monterey. Admission is $4 general, $3 for students and senior citizens. For information, call 626-1730.

NOTICE OF DEATH AND OF PETITION TO ADMINISTER ESTATE OF: LESSI ELLEN CULMER, CASE NO. MP 10909

To all heirs, beneficiaries, creditors, contingent creditors, and persons who may be otherwise interested in the will or estate, or both, LESSI ELLEN CULMER.

A petition has been filed by ELEANOR REGINA HICKS, in the Superior Court of Monterey County requesting that ELEANOR REGINA HICKS be appointed as personal representative to administer the estate of the decedent.

The petition requests authority to administer the estate under the independent Administration of Estates Act. (This authority allows the personal representative to take many actions without obtaining court approval. Before taking certain actions, however, the personal representative is required to give notice to interested persons unless they have waived notice or consented to the proposed action.) The independent administration authority will be granted unless an interested person files an objection to this petition and shows good cause why the court should not grant the authority.

A hearing on the petition will be held on April 28, 1989 at 9:30 a.m. at 1200 Aguajito Road, Monterey, California 93940.

IF YOU OBJECT to granting of the petition, you should either appear at the hearing and state your objection or file written objections with the court before the hearing. Your appearance may be in person or by your attorney.

IF YOU ARE A CREDITOR or a contingent creditor of the deceased, you must file your claim with the court or present it to the personal representative appointed by the court within four months from the date of first issuance of letters as provided in section 900 of the California Probate Code. The time for filing claims will not expire prior to four months from the date of the hearing noticed above.

YOU MAY EXAMINE the file kept by the court. If you are a person interested in the estate, you may file with the court a formal Request for Special Notice of the filing of an inventory and appraisal of estate assets or of any petition or account as provided in section 1250 of the California Probate Code. A Request for Special Notice form is available from the court clerk.

Attorney for petitioner:
L. PATRICK PIGGOTT
6 So. El Dorado St.
Stockton, Ca. 95202.

(s) L. Patrick Piggott
10. This notice was mailed on 3/22/89 at Stockton, California.

Publication dates: March 30, April 6, 13, 1989

CITY OF CARMEL-BY-THE-SEA ORDINANCE NO. 89-10

AN ORDINANCE AMENDING CHAPTER 17.42 OF THE CITY'S LAND USE CODE TO INCLUDE PROCEDURES FOR MONITORING MITIGATION MEASURES.

WHEREAS, Chapter 17.42 of the Land Use Code contains procedures for implementing the provisions of the California Environmental Quality Act (CEQA); and

WHEREAS, in 1988 the State Legislature amended the California Environmental Quality Act requiring monitoring of mitigation measures incorporated into a project as a result of the environmental review process; and

WHEREAS, the amendment to the California Environmental Quality Act became effective 1 January 1989; and

WHEREAS, all public agencies must comply with the provisions of the California Environmental Quality Act; and

WHEREAS, neither the City's environmental procedures, Chapter 17.42 of the Land Use Code nor the State CEQA Guidelines contain provisions for the newly enacted amendments to the California Environmental Quality Act;

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED THAT THE CITY COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF CARMEL-BY-THE-SEA DOES ORDAIN AS FOLLOWS:

Section One. Section 17.42.160 is amended as follows: (New words are in italics).

17.42.160 Fees Established.
Fees for environmental review applications and monitoring programs shall be adopted by resolution of the City Council. Such fees shall be paid at the time an application is made. An additional fee equivalent to ten percent of the cost of preparation shall be paid for review of environmental impact reports. Copies of environmental documents will be made available to the public and may be obtained for the actual cost of reproduction. (Ord 84-1 1 (part), 1983; Ord. 329 C.S. (part), 1974; prior code 1323.13).

SECTION TWO: The following section is added to Chapter 17.42 of the Land Use Code:

17.42.155 Monitoring Program.

A. When findings are made or when adopting a negative declaration pursuant to Section 21081 (a) of the Public Resources Code, the decision making body shall adopt a reporting and monitoring program for the changes to the project which it has adopted or made a condition of project approval in order to mitigate significant effects on the environment.

B. The Monitoring Program shall identify the specific actions required to implement each mitigation measure or project change, the person(s) or agency responsible for carrying out the action and the time period for reporting on implementation of the actions.

C. The Monitoring Program shall be administered by the Director of Community Planning and Building based on the advice of qualified staff and/or consultants. Reporting shall be made in writing to the decision making body. The Monitoring Report shall be available to the public at least seven calendar days prior to review of the decision making body.

D. If the decision making body determines that any firm, person or corporation has failed to carry out the project changes or mitigation measures, the firm, person or corporation responsible is guilty of an infraction and the penalties identified in the Land Use Code.

SECTION THREE: Violations. Any person or firm or corporation, whether as principal or agent, employed or otherwise, violating or causing or permitting the violation of the provisions of this ordinance is guilty of an infraction. Any part of any building erected contrary to the provisions of this ordinance is hereby declared to be unlawful and a public nuisance and the City Attorney shall, upon order of the City Council, immediately commence action for the abatement or removal thereof. Should any person, firm or corporation violate the terms of this ordinance and any action is authorized by the City Council or the City Attorney or is in fact filed for said violations, no other action shall be taken on any application filed by or on behalf of said person, firm or corporation until the litigation has been resolved.

SECTION FOUR: Severability. If any part of this ordinance is found to be unenforceable, such finding shall not affect the enforceability of any other part.

SECTION FIVE: Effective Date. This ordinance shall take effect 30 days after final adoption. Any application not yet approved upon the effective date of this ordinance shall be reviewed under the terms of this ordinance. Any application approved prior to the effective date of this ordinance shall be allowed to continue through normal permit processes and project completion.

PASSED AND ADOPTED by the City Council of the City of Carmel-by-the-Sea this 7th day of March 1989, by the following roll call vote:

AYES: COUNCIL MEMBERS: Fischer, Laiolo, White, Wright, Grace
NOES: COUNCIL MEMBERS: None
ABSENT: COUNCIL MEMBERS: None
